Turn About for the Mounties

Long accustomed to seeing the Mounties in Canada, the RCMP, overseas with the Coronation contingent, act like tourists when they visit Whitehall. Five of the contingent admire a mount of the Horse Guards there. (CP from U.K. Information.)

PRIME MINISTERS FETE ELIZABETH

Elder Statesmen of Commonwealth Pledge
To Go Forward With Her 'in Adventure'

LONDON (CP)—The Queen met today with the elder statesmen of the far-reaching British Commonwealth and received their pledge to go forward with her "in a spirit of adventure."

CHARLES ONLY A SPECTATOR

LONDON (Reuters)—Reports that Prince Charles would kneel and pay homage to his mother at her Coronation in Westminster Abbey were vigorously denied today by a Buckingham Palace spokesman. "He will attend as a spectator only," the official said.

Ottawa Reminds Income Taxpayers Of Deduction Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—The revenue department today gave Canadians an official reminder that lower income tax deductions start July 1.

The department issued a whole new table of tax deductions at source applicable to salaries or wages received on or after July 1.

The effect is to slash approximately 11 per cent off the present deductions in keeping with Finance Minister Abbott's budget of February 19. Employers are getting 180,000 copies of the new tables through the mails.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Aide Denies Assault Story

TOKYO (AP)—Reports that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had been pelted from her car by a group of demonstrators Japanese women, published Monday by the newspaper Yomiuri, were denied Tuesday by Maureen Cobb, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary. The secretary said a group of Japanese women surrounded but did not touch Mrs. Roosevelt as she was leaving a government office building Monday.

Oil Mogul's Son Dies In California Crash

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—College student Frank G. McMahon, 24, of Calgary was killed today as his automobile crashed into a supporting pillar of the south San Francisco overpass on Bayshore highway. His father, Frank M. McMahon, is president of Pacific Petroleum Ltd., one of the big gas and oil companies in the oil and gas hunt in northeastern British Columbia.

Liberals Hold Nova Scotia; Majority of 6

All Three Party
Leaders Returned

By The Canadian Press
Following is the Canadian Press list of party gains in Nova Scotia:
Progressive Conservative, 8 from Liberals — Cumberland Centre, Cumberland East, Kings 2, Lunenburg 2, Queens, Yarmouth.
Liberals 3: From Progressive Conservatives — Clare, Cumberland West, Digby.

HALIFAX—The Liberals were returned to power in Nova Scotia's general election Tuesday, but Progressive Conservative gains cut their majority in the legislature to six seats, the slimmest since the party started its reign in 1933.

1949 election:
Liberals 22
PC's 13
CCF 2

Total 37
Following the 1949 election the Progressive Conservatives gained a seat from the Liberals in a by-election made necessary when the voting in one riding was declared void.

All three party leaders—Angus L. Macdonald of the Liberals; Robert L. (Bob) Stanfield, 39, of the Progressive Conservatives; and Michael McDonald, 43, of the CCF—were re-elected Tuesday.

The popular-vote tabulation showed the Liberals with 49.7 per cent of the total. The Progressive Conservatives had 42.9 per cent.

In 1949, the Liberals won with 51 per cent of the vote. The Progressive Conservatives had 39 per cent.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbia Liberals expressed hope today that the party's success in the Nova Scotia general election would extend to the shores of the Pacific when the province elects a new administration June 8.

Provincial Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said the results were "an example of the continuing confidence of the Canadian people in Liberalism."

He added that Premier Angus Macdonald "has always conducted a responsible government and his administration has kept close to the people of Nova Scotia."

"We hope the west coast, on June 8, will follow the lead of the shores swept by the Atlantic and return a responsible Liberal administration to this province," he said.

Provincial Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson hailed the additional five seats for his party in the Maritime province.

He said "the Conservative stride in Nova Scotia again accentuates the steady swing of the people to our party."

"To practically double the representation there is concrete evidence the people are gradually throwing off the bondage of Liberal machine politics."

Two Die in RCAF Training Plane Crash

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (BUP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force Harvard training plane has crashed six miles southeast of the Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, RCAF station—killing its two occupants.

Air Force officials say the victims were RCAF student pilots. Their names are being withheld, pending notification of next of kin.

THE ALTERNATIVE VOTE

Marking of Ballots
Simplicity Itself

(It is the June 9 election B.C. for the second time will use the alternative, or transferable voting system. It is still a new thing to many voters. In response to requests from many of its subscribers the Times is carrying a series of six articles daily this week explaining various features of alternative voting as a public service. They are written by Leslie Fox, managing editor, who spent 16 years as a reporter covering provincial affairs. This is article 3.)

By LESLIE FOX
The actual marking of ballots under the alternative voting system is simplicity itself. The usual form of ballot is provided. It lists the names of candidates. Opposite each is a blank square.

In the single vote method all you did was mark a cross against the name of the man you wanted and toss your ballot into the box. You left the other squares blank.

Under the alternative system you mark the figure one opposite the man you want most elected.

Reid Takes Daughter Out Of School

Salmon Arm MLA's
Child 'Persecuted'

SALMON ARM, B.C. (CP)—J. Allan Reid, Social Credit member for Salmon Arm, has taken his daughter out of high school because she has been persecuted by other students.

Reid said his daughter, now famous "sex in schools" attack on the B.C. educational system during the last session of the legislature.

Reid confirmed the removal of his daughter from school, but declined to comment.

First word came from school trustee Ed Codd, who has supported Reid in wanting the controversial Effective Living course removed from school curriculum. He spoke at a meeting of the school trustees.

"BOTH WAYS"
During the meeting school board chairman J. L. Jackson told Codd he had used the situation for political purposes.

"That can go both ways," replied Codd, accusing students in the school of persecuting Reid's daughter as a result of which Reid had to take her out of the school.

Codd promised chairman Jackson he would no longer discuss the subject.

Reid's daughter, almost 15, has not been at school for some months.

Homeniuk Sent Up for Trial

DUNCAN—Frank Homeniuk, 37, Crofton boom-man, was committed for trial today by Magistrate A. C. Sutton following preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering Eric A. Lindstrom, 45, woods feller and father of seven children.

Lindstrom died in hospital following an affray on Station Street here shortly after midnight May 10. (See earlier story, page 3.)

EVASIVE AS EELS, SAYS LAING

Sacred Philosophy
Branded 'Voodooism'

By GORDON FORBES
Times Political Reporter
PORT ALBERNI—Premier Bennett and his top cabinet ministers are "evasive as eels" in answering questions about their views on Social Credit monetary reform principles, Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said here Tuesday night.

Mr. Laing, addressing a packed meeting in Legion Hall, ridiculed the provincial Social Credit leaders' contention that monetary theories are not an issue in the provincial election campaign.

"I say this is one of the most important issues in the campaign," he said.

"Social Credit monetary reform theories present a threat that dwarfs any threat Socialism ever made," stated the Liberal chief.

Logger Drowns After Alert Bay Mishap

ALERT BAY (BUP)—The RCMP reported today that logger Norman Ritchie, 47, of Inglewood, B.C., drowned after striking his head on a log as he fell off a wharf near here Tuesday. He is survived by his wife.

"With the Socialists proposing this sort of thing, the business men had better quit worrying about Socialism," he said, worrying about Social Credit.

"Business wouldn't last 24 hours under such a policy," said Mr. Laing.

Mr. Laing, recalling that Mr. Low has stated he will fight the next federal election on the monetary theory issue, said: "I'll fight him on that issue for the sake of Canada, and if we can't run this outfit in Victoria (Socialists) we'll be doing a service to Canada."

NEWS OF EVEREST CLIMB EXPECTED SATURDAY

KAMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—Anxious eyes scanned the narrow trail leading to Kammandu from Mt. Everest today, watching for native runners who will bring word of the success or failure of the British expedition attempting to conquer the world's highest peak.

Mountain experts said that if the men of the British climbing team failed to reach the summit of Everest last week-end, they probably now are digging in to await another spell of good weather.

Weather forecasters said that a least one fierce snowstorm was expected to assault the 29,000-foot peak today.

Atmospherics cut off all news from the expedition's radio transmitter, so nobody knows whether they made it. If they did, the news is on its way down the icy slopes with runners, who cannot arrive before next Saturday.

HUGE LAND, SEA HUNT FOR BOMBER

Fate of Comox-Based Lancaster Plane
Still Unknown; Crew Members Identified

Compiled from CP, BUP Dispatches
VANCOUVER—A land, sea and air search was launched today for a Vancouver Island-based Lancaster bomber lost Tuesday over the Oregon coast.

The four-engine bomber vanished off Newport, Ore., on a flight from Vancouver Island to San Diego with other RCAF bombers escorting the newly equipped destroyer escort HMCS Algonquin which is en route to its Halifax base via the Panama Canal.

A clue to the fate of the missing aircraft was a search plane's report of spotting an orange-colored box floating in the ocean 21 miles south of the plane's last reported position. RCAF planes carry orange-painted emergency gear.

The Coast Guard cutter USS Balsam was dispatched from Coos Bay, Ore., to look for the reported debris.

Search headquarters were investigating scattered reports of crashes both in Oregon and California.

Search swung to the coastal Port Orford area of the state after citizens told of hearing a low-flying plane and the still more ominous report concerning the possible crash.

George Montgomery of Salmon Mountain, 17 miles east of Port Orford, told of a multi-engine plane apparently crashing after striking the tree.

This happened, he said, between 2 and 3 a.m. Tuesday. The missing Lancaster was last heard from at 2:22 a.m., several hours after leaving its Comox base on Vancouver Island.

At Myrtle Point, 30 miles northeast of Port Orford, there were a number of reports of a low-flying plane and the United States Coast Guard was attempting to plot its route from telephoned reports of those who heard it.

A thunderstorm had cracked along the Oregon coast shortly before the Lancaster disappeared and continued unsettled weather made conditions unfavorable for searching.

It was in effect a formal notification that the split on truce policy that has plagued the Allies for nearly two years—most notably in recent weeks—had been healed.

It also was a warning to the Communists that they no longer can use free world differences to wring new concessions but must decide quickly whether to end the talk and the war or to continue the conflict.

AUDIENCE SCREAMED AND SHOUTED

Young Lawyer Grabs Paper From Bennett to Challenge Remarks

(Special to the Times)
POWELL RIVER—A young Westview lawyer marched to the platform where Premier W. A. C. Bennett was speaking here Tuesday night, snatched a written statement from the Social Credit leader's hands while an audience of 367 screamed and shouted, and charged the premier with distortion of the truth.

Bert Matthews interrupted the premier's report on debt reduction to challenge.

"Is it not correct your government borrowed $550,000 on September 2, $1,000,000 on September 15 and $275,000 on September 22?" he asked.

The premier appealed to the packed house. "We have voted no bond issue," he said, "not one nickel. When we pay off this $12,000,000 on June 30 we

Senator Sees UN Futile In Dealing With Truce

CINCINNATI (AP)—In a surprise major foreign policy speech, Senator Robert Taft said Tuesday night the United States "might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned."

"I think we should do our best now to negotiate this truce," he said, "and if we fail, then let England and our other Allies know that we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

The Republican Senate majority leader added: "I believe we might as well abandon any idea of working with the United Nations in the completely free hand."

Taft's speech was delivered by his son, Robert A. Taft Jr., at a dinner in the senator's honor. The Ohio Republican still is in a local hospital for a check-up.

Taft said "even the best truce under present conditions will be extremely unsatisfactory. It would divide Korea along an unnatural line, creating an unstable condition likely to bring war again at any moment."

And, said Taft, a strong force on the Senate foreign relations committee, it would "release a million Chinese soldiers, who no doubt will promptly be moved down to southern China for use against Chiang Kai-shek or against the French in Indo-China."

He said that "from the beginning, we should have insisted with China, including a unification of Korea under free Koreans, and a pledge against further expansion in southeast Asia."

Taft said he thinks that the United States "in any event" is bound to the policy of preventing Communist aggression where it occurs and where it is within the means of the United States to stop it.

Would Not Send Soldier to Asia

He followed immediately by saying he has never felt that the United States "should send American soldiers to the continent of Asia... simply because we are so outnumbered in fighting land war on the continent of Asia it would bring about complete exhaustion even if we were able to win."

They he said the United States should give itself a completely free hand in the East and forget about working with the UN there.

"This statement," he continued, "is going to shock a good many people who still believe in the UN there."

Always a 'Skeptic' About NATO

Taft said he always has been a "skeptical" on the subject of the military practicability of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"I have always felt that we should not attempt to fight Russia on the ground on the continent of Europe any more than we should attempt to fight China on the continent of Asia. I have always felt that that defense must be undertaken by those who occupy Western Europe... .

The senator said he pointed out a long time ago that the United Nations "could not possibly prevent aggression because of the veto power which could be used by any one of the five powers to veto united action against themselves and against any one of their satellites."

Churchill said the new plan was "very close" to the Indian proposal and had "the complete support of Her Majesty's government." Even Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, usually critical of Allied Korean policy, indicated he favored the new UN position.

The only discordant note was sounded by South Korea. Its ambassador here indicated the plan was "completely unsatisfactory" and its truce representative apparently was boycotting the armistice talks because of it.

In keeping with the UN request that details of the plan be kept secret, neither Eisenhower nor Churchill revealed any of its specific terms.

document unknown to the general public. It's a document our legislature never saw; a document dealing with public moneys on a political platform. Promises of future reductions of debt to bolster Social Credit."

Mr. Matthews claimed the Socialists had borrowed $3,922,000 from August 2 to December 31 last year and paid off only $3,211,000. But later he corrected himself, claiming $3,516,000 of debt redemption was scheduled for the coming year.

Premier Bennett maintained a debt reduction of $21,000,000 had been accomplished since his government took office, and a further $12,000,000 reduction was assured this year.

"There will be further reductions while the Social Credit party is in office," he promised.

FOURTH APPEAL PLANNED ON BEHALF OF A-SPIES

WASHINGTON (UP)—Attorneys for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today planned a fourth appeal to the Supreme Court despite indications a new execution date for the condemned atom spies will be set early next week.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson refused Tuesday to stay the execution to allow time for filing the new appeal. But justice department sources said it is improbable that the husband-wife spy team will be sent to the electric chair if an action is pending before the Supreme Court.

Although the couple's New York attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch, came to Washington Tuesday with the stay petition, he was never admitted to Vinson's chambers. The chief justice simply wrote the word "denied" on papers presented to him.

QUEEN GREET'S PRIME MINISTERS

Ties Linking Commonwealth Recalled As Nation's Heads Meet in London

LONDON (AP)—The text of the speech by the Queen to the luncheon of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association in Westminster Hall today:

I thank you all most sincerely for the kind way in which you have drunk my health. I thank you also, Mr. Harold E. Holt, for this most interesting book, which you have just given me on behalf of your fellow members of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

I was delighted to accept the invitation of the association to be their guest today, for it gives me this opportunity of welcoming my prime ministers and ministers and the many other parliamentary representatives from our great Commonwealth of Nations.

On the eve of his own Coronation, 16 years ago, my dear father also met in Westminster Hall those who represented the legislatures of the Commonwealth. I am indeed glad to follow his example.

It is a stirring thought that all these legislatures are descended from the assembly which met under this roof nearly seven centuries ago.

We stand here in the palace of Westminster which is the home of the mother of parliaments. Of the many ties linking this family of nations not the least is that system of parliamentary government which is common to us all.

I have vivid memories of my visits during my father's lifetime to Commonwealth parliaments overseas, and I am looking forward with pleasure to seeing others during my forthcoming tour.

To this great association I offer my best wishes for the success of their coming deliberations. I hope that all of you whose homes are overseas will have a very happy and enjoyable stay in this country.

Prince Rupert Radio Station Bought by CBC

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation today announced purchase of radio station CFRP from Northwest Broadcast and Service Company Ltd. The station has been leased by the CBC since 1943.

Kenneth Caple, regional representative of the CBC, said that except for a personnel increase the move would not immediately alter the operation and programming of the station. CBC leased the station during the war when the population of the area was greatly increased.

Bank Robber Escapes With $7,000 On Bus

Gunman Described As 'Tall and Cool'

TORONTO (BUP)—North York police turned up no new clues today in the search for a "tall, cool" gunman who pulled Ontario's second daylight bank robbery in two days and hopped on a bus carrying $7,000 loot.

The bandit, described as "unusually tall and unusually cool," held up the Dominion Bank of Canada branch at closing time Tuesday. He walked out carrying the money and calmly boarded a bus.

Police, who found his gray-green raincoat on the bus, believed he got off at nearby Thornhill where a getaway car was waiting.

Bank Manager Donald Sheldrick said the man apparently waited in the bank until the last customer left at 3 p.m. He forced seven employees into a vault, shouting and waving a black automatic.

He kept Teller Allen Edwards, 21, in his cage to pile all the bundles of bills on the counter. Then Edwards was also forced into the vault, which was not locked. None of the employees saw the bandit leave.

"The man was very quick," Sheldrick said. "He was a holdup took only two minutes and he knew his way about."

Another gunman held up a bank in Portland, near Smith Falls, Monday and escaped with $5,000.

FACES 19TH OPERATION

Rodney Dee Given Excellent Chance

CHICAGO (AP)—Rodney Dee Brodie has moved off the critical list and plunged into the rigorous role of a celebrity—and he loves it.

Rodney, the only head-to-head Siamese twin to survive a separation operation, was taken from his sheltered life in a hospital room Tuesday and placed before a battery of photographers.

He faced up to the occasion with a big grin and a loud "Hi." The photographs are in preparation for the first glimpse the public will have of the 20-month-old boy whose parents risked all in the hope the twins would have a chance for a normal life. His brother Roger died Jan. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brodie have authorized publication of the photographs in newspapers, magazines and newsreels June 4 when their son, Rodney, appears on the March of Dimes program to be telecast from the annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

Lolling in his baby tender in the sun-sweet grass court of the Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute, Rodney watched the photographers go through their paces with an interest sometimes bordering on fascination. He even obligingly waved his rattle at them.

Only in the last few weeks had Rodney seen any individuals other than his doctors, nurses and parents. Now he takes his meals with other children in the hospital ward and is permitted outside on sunny days.

Doctors described Rodney's progress in the last two months as excellent, but he still has a long way to go.

So far, the top of his brain is protected only by a cover of skin and hair. In another two months or so, surgeons hope to build a hard skull roof of bone, metal or plastic and insert it under the skin cover. Rodney has a good hair cover, and the front half of his head because skin containing hair follicles was transplanted there from the side of his head.

Surgeons say they face two problems in their plans to give Rodney a hard skull top. One is a problem of contour. Rodney's brain, instead of curving spherically on top, is flat and higher in the back than in the front.

The other is deciding on the substance. Transplanted bone, plastic and metal have all been known to work loose after such operations.

What are his chances for a normal life? The nurses who have cared for him daily say he is as far advanced mentally as any 20-month-old boy. The doctors say it is too early to tell. But they add there is no evidence that his mental capacities have been harmed by the 12-hour separation operation Dec. 17.

They describe him as "reasonably bright" and say he is improving from a partial left-side paralysis that followed the separation operation. He has undergone 18 operations.

1 Dead, 4 Injured In Ontario Storms

Losses Estimated at $1,000,000 as New Gales Destroy Communications, Barns, Homes

SARNIA, Ont. (BUP)—Losses were estimated at $1,000,000 today in new storms which blasted western Ontario only four days after a tornado caused $10,000,000 damage to this city alone.

The storms killed one person and injured four others. Crews worked relentlessly to restore hydro and telephone services and clear away ruins of barns in the Wingham, Blythe and Brussels areas.

Hailstones as big as mothballs pelted Wingham and Strathroy. Trees littered the highways. Fifteen barns were blown down around Brussels.

A dam on Hopewell Creek at Breslau was washed out. The Maitland River flooded near Listowel and the Grand River and Mill Creek were in flood near Galt.

The weather bureau predicted heavy crop damage to orchards in the Niagara Peninsula. Arthur Leroux, 25, of Penzance, Ont., drowned when a sudden fire broke out in his boat on Lake Cognashene, 20 miles from Midland. It was believed lightning struck the craft.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS—Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith were knocked unconscious when lightning split a tree near their home in Kitchener. Jack Goodman and Robert Millehoff of London were injured by lightning while working on a farm.

In Hamilton, a record fall of 3.18 inches of rain flooded the basement of Mountain sanatorium, causing $2,000 damage. Several residential streets were isolated when flood waters coursed across a five-mile stretch of the Queen Elizabeth way.

Many of the stricken areas resembled scenes of last Friday in the wake of the tornado which killed three persons as it cut a wide swath from here to Lake Ontario.

Local organizations launched a special relief fund while they awaited a reply to their plea for aid from the national disaster fund.

A night-long broadcast asking for funds for emergency food, shelter, clothing and medical supplies produced almost $9,000 in pledges within two hours Tuesday night. Contributions ranged from $1,000 to 26 cents given by a small child.

Returning from the Coronation in Westminster Abbey, Queen Elizabeth wears the imperial crown and carries the sceptre and orb.

LAING HITS SOCRED 'VOODOOISM'

The Liberal leader was addressing more than 300 people at the wind-up of a busy day of campaigning in the Comox and Alberni ridings on behalf of candidates Jack Baikie and Mayor Loran. Both seats are now held by CCFers and the Liberals consider their chief opposition still lies with the Socialists.

Mr. Laing, according to local politicians, drew more people than Finance Minister Einar Gunderson, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and former Speaker Thomas Irwin put together.

Mr. Laing drew applause from the crowd for his criticism of the Rolston formula on school financing. He said the Liberals will see that 80 per cent of education costs come from the provincial treasury.

BIGGER BURDEN

The Rolston Formula, he said, would have shifted a heavier taxation burden on to the municipalities "just like the Socreds have done in Alberta."

Mr. Laing promised the predominantly labor audience a Liberal government would not issue any more forest management licences until the entire forestry picture had once again been reviewed by a royal commission.

He said he favored a great increase in the number of small logging operators, not a decrease.

He accused the Social Credit government of trying to destroy hospital insurance, and putting "right back to where Boss Johnson found it in 1947."

He said the scheme can't operate without "universality—call it compulsion if you like."

The audience again applauded the speaker when he said the Socreds are "clipping" the worker on payroll deduction, and allowing the rest to go free in a "half voluntary, half compulsory scheme."

"A government which allows such a situation is not worthy of power," he said.

At Quesnel hospital, he claimed, 40 per cent of the patients now entering are not covered by hospital insurance "and the hospital is going back $900 a month."

A member of the audience asked Mr. Laing what he'd do to prevent another election next year if Premier Bennett introduced at the fall session the same legislation which defeated him last March.

The Liberal leader replied it is the premier's responsibility to see that the people's business is carried out. He said the premier should discuss with party leaders the legislation to which they'd agree. Premier Bennett should have done that this year. Harold Winch, he felt, would have done so in a similar situation and refrained from introducing legislation socializing an industry.

"By this I don't mean a coalition," stressed Mr. Laing. "I'll never join an official coalition." He said the people wouldn't stand for another election, any way.

ON ELECTION DAY JUNE 9, YOUR VOTE FOR A LIBERAL GOVERNMENT WILL:

- Bring immediate action on the question of forest Management licences with particular attention to the small operator.
- Prevent crippling taxes on Forestry and Mining
- Renew efforts to provide markets for our Fisheries output.
- Keep business moving to B.C.
- Bring immediate action to develop the Tourist Industry throughout British Columbia.

Confusion on these important issues means stagnation.
A federal government will press forward these measures and assure British Columbia's continued development.

Wise Men in the East

THE RETURN OF THE LIBERAL government in yesterday's election in Nova Scotia was a direct indication of the people's satisfaction with the party that has served them for the past 20 years. The appeal of the Liberal administration was based on its record in office—as one version put it, "whether Premier MacDonald's government has done enough." The large majority vote of approval writes its own story.

It provides, as Premier MacDonald says, a mandate to "carry on our work and do the best we can."

Socialist representation in the maritime province is almost negligible, and although the Progressive Conservative opposition is also small it is evident that Nova Scotia prefers the many advantages of the predominantly two-party system in ordering its affairs.

With an election in Manitoba on June 8 and British Columbia voting the following day, the eastern, central and western contests give in effect a foretaste of the federal battle looming later in the year.

The Nova Scotia results bear out predictions made in that province, and observers see little likelihood of an upset for the Liberal administration of Manitoba. The B.C. contest, as a result of the four-party fight, the transferable vote and other factors, is less predictable.

It is notable, however, that Liberal prospects have greatly altered since that party's convention and its choice of Mr. Arthur Laing as leader. Speakers returning from the interior report much larger Liberal meetings than were the case in the last campaign. Social Credit leader Bennett himself has paid the Liberals a compliment by treating them as his chief opponents.

It has been a striking feature of the campaign how Social Credit attention has switched from attacks on the CCF and a "socialism or us" slogan to a vituperative onslaught on the strengthening Liberal effort. Mr. Laing describes Premier Bennett as "panicking," and gives the Liberals "a good fighting chance" of winning.

He has inspired a come-back that should appeal to many voters. he can point to the present prosperity of the province as due in large measure to the progressive policies of the John Hart and Byron Johnson governments. Nova Scotia has demonstrated that in the long run it is deeds not words that win general elections, and it is Liberal deeds, against Social Credit words, that should decide this one.

Politics and the Press

AT A RECENT POLITICAL meeting Mr. Einar Gunderson, the former member for Similkameen, is reported to have remarked, a bit wistfully, that "... of course, our party owns no newspapers"; and it was further reported that this remark elicited applause from his audience.

The fact is, as Mr. Gunderson must know, that no metropolitan newspaper in British Columbia—or in the rest of Canada, to the best of our knowledge—is owned by a political party. The closest thing to it, by an amusing coincidence, is the Vancouver News-Herald, whose editorials in support of Social Credit are currently being distributed by Mr. Gunderson's party, and which is owned by a Progressive Conservative candidate in the forthcoming Federal election (Now, there's a coincidence for you!)

Mr. Gunderson's remarks, nevertheless, insinuate a nasty sort of bias against the press—as though these poor Socrades, without a newspaper to call their own, can't get a fair hearing. Here again the ex-member for Similkameen is demonstrably wrong. A check of the news-column space devoted to the campaign to date reveals that Social Crediters have received what any fair-minded observer would agree is their fair share of coverage.

If Mr. Gunderson were to lament that B.C.'s metropolitan newspapers—with the above-noted exception—cannot find it in their hearts to support his party editorially, he would be on safer ground. The reasons for this should be quite obvious.

How can any self-respecting newspaper, with the true interests of the Canadian people at heart, support a party whose avowed intention is to upset the constitution of this country to introduce its preposterous, discredited and woolly-minded monetary theories of "ham and eggs every Thursday" and "Prosperity scrip"?

How can any honest newspaper support a party whose cabinet ministers say in public that the United Nations concept is a hoax, part of a sinister plot by a mysterious "they" who will "rob this nation of its sovereignty"?

How can any newspaper of liberal and progressive outlook support a party steeped in authoritarianism, in anti-Semitism and hot-eyed religious dogmatism?

How, finally, could any newspaper which cherishes its freedom support the party which spawned the abortive Accurate News and Information Act of September, 1937, which would have compelled Alberta newspapers to publish government propaganda at the order of the chairman of the Social Credit Board?

Newspapers, we must remind Mr. Gunderson, have two major responsibilities to their readers. One is to report the news of political events just as accurately and honestly as possible in their news columns. The second is to assess and interpret this news, and draw therefrom honest opinion which will be expressed as policy in the editorial columns of the responsible newspaper.

We are satisfied that British Columbia newspapers—within the limits of their talents, energies and budgets—are serving their constituents faithfully in this regard. And they are doing so independently, the property of no political party.

The Stork and the Formula

THE GREATER VICTORIA School Board is not a political body in the partisan sense of that term. But there is interesting political material in the announcement which came from its offices yesterday.

According to the statement, a bumper crop of Grade 1 pupils—about 1,600 compared with last year's 1,400—is expected to be pre-registered for September classes in Greater Victoria schools by Friday's deadline.

That means higher costs, even if the additional children are squeezed into existing accommodation. Under the Rolston formula no municipality would receive less than it was given by the government in 1952. But obviously the problem of municipalities is to find more funds, not just for the coming school year but for all that follow it as long as the upward trend in school population continues.

If the government contribution were pegged, the extra money could come from only one other source—the municipal taxpayer.

Can the municipalities, or their people, wonder now why the balance-holding Liberals in the last legislature repudiated the bill on which Mr. Bennett forced a vote to achieve his government's defeat. The Liberals and other opposition parties knew what the formula would do in pushing rising costs onto the municipalities. The enrolment figures for Grade 1 show how those costs will go up, and municipalities have protested for years against the high rate of school taxation on property owners.

Why Tony Poje Is There

MEMBERS OF LOCAL 1-80 OF the International Woodworkers of America (CCL) are entitled to follow whatever legal course they choose in the election of officers and in the installation of those officials. If it is their wish to conduct a ceremony formally recognizing Tony Poje as president while he is serving a jail sentence, that is their right.

But it would be unfortunate if what one of the delegates said is true of the general membership. The delegate expressed the opinion that many do not know why Mr. Poje is in jail.

If they don't know, they should be told. Mr. Poje is where he is because he violated the laws of Canada. He was tried and convicted on a contempt of court charge, appealed and lost his appeal. The court, following the regular processes, found that he had committed an act which carries with it the prison term upon conviction. Sentence was passed and is being executed.

Provided they are given an opportunity to think the question through, the IWA members will understand that such procedure must be enforced against anyone who breaks the law. Were it not applied, society would break down in anarchy. That would be a matter of direct concern to all citizens, members of the woodworkers' union among them.

The union may not like the law in question. Many people take exception to other legislation with which they have no sympathy. But as long as it is law, it must be observed or penalties must be applied to those who disregard it. That is the rule by which members of society are able to live together.

LOOSE ENDS

In William Tell's Town

ALTDORF, Switzerland—It was into this little town that William Tell came out of the mountains to shoot an apple from the head of his son and establish the great Swiss legend. Carved in heroic bronze, the figure of the bearded father and the small boy stand in the square, overshadowed by a gigantic monument of colored stone.

From men like Tell, who refused to accept the tyranny of Austria came the nation of Switzerland some seven hundred years ago. A few miles west of here the founders of the state met in the village of Brunnen and consummated a union of varied races and tongues which seems stronger today than ever.

Here in Altdorf they still like to talk politics. I cannot vouch for the accuracy of my informant, but she seemed to know what she was talking about and, having worked as a waitress in England, she spoke excellent English.

In appearance at least this proprietress of a sidewalk restaurant was a remarkable woman. Her face looked exactly like a Rainbow-trout rising to a May fly. In a glass tank nearby were a score of such trout, imported originally from British Columbia and now served in the hotels. They bore a strong family resemblance to my friend—solemn, determined and minding their own business.

This lady explained that in the oldest democracy of Europe no woman may vote at elections. This, she said, was an excellent arrangement. Politicians were exclusively for men and men were welcome to them. She had no time to waste on such affairs.

For in Switzerland, she added, glancing hard at the ladies of my party, all women must work, even if they were rich. They were not like North American women who, as she judged from the samples she saw in the tourist season, had nothing to do and suffered acutely from boredom.

Half of that statement was true anyway. The Swiss women work. They work so hard that they seem to have little time for anything else. Their hands are the hands of workers. They seldom use any cosmetics and in this country I have discovered, for the first time, the natural color of a woman's lips. It is a disillusionment. Even at lunch in a restaurant most of the women knit fiercely between courses as if their lives depended on finishing a sweater or a pair of socks.

In any case, said my informant, the political system of Switzerland was so complicated that any woman taking part in it would spend all her time at the polls. Since the acts of the central parliament must be ratified by the local votes of the two dozen cantons, or provinces, there is a vote of some sort every week or two. Let the men look after that. The women have something more important to do.

She went on to tell me about the last war when Switzerland preserved its neutrality by a kind of honorable blackmail.

Along the western frontier, where the rolling Swiss plains merge into the great plain of central Europe, we had seen miles of tank traps in the form of huge concrete blocks. But these, I was told, were absurd and after Hitler's blitzkrieg through the Low Countries no reliance was placed on them.

The strategy of the Swiss high command proposed a retreat into the mountains where every road, tunnel and railway was mined for instant explosion. If Hitler had crossed the border half the Alps would have tumbled down, blocking for years his access to Italy, his ally.

So Hitler left Switzerland alone, but every Swiss knew that Germany won the war all the labors of William Tell and the others would be liquidated at leisure. In spirit, said the lady of Altdorf, Switzerland was never neutral. And in a mixture of English and her native German she described Hitler as one of the blackest devils in history.

She seemed to resent the notion (though no one had mentioned it) that the Swiss could not or would not fight. Throughout the Middle Ages, she reminded me proudly, the Swiss were such formidable fighters that every European general was eager to hire them as mercenaries. Today, she said, they were the finest marksmen on the continent.

This I could well believe. On a Sunday half the male population carries rifles into the mountains to practice target shooting and we were compelled to abandon a lively picnic group in an Alpine pass by the whang of bullets overhead. As every Swiss youth must take military training for several weeks a year, the roads are filled with soldiers in green uniforms and iron helmets of the German model.

Obviously this nation is still concerned, as it has been since Tell's time, with the danger of invasion. The central crossroads of Europe can still be blown up at a moment's notice if any conqueror is foolish enough to enter these narrow defiles.

The Swiss, said the non-political lady, with a shrewd understanding of politics, have learned something which most nations never learn—to keep their noses out of other people's affairs. Once, she said, Switzerland had controlled a large part of Italy, Austria and France but it had refused, to retain these medieval conquests.

"When you have colonies," she remarked with a grim, trout-like look, "you are always in trouble. We bother no one, so no one bothers us. The Germans never understand that. They have paid for it."

From Altdorf we drove north into the Black Forest, over a dark pass, where a sudden blast of spring snow almost blew our little car off the road, and within a mile or two watched the mountain waters flowing to the Rhine and the Danube, to the North Sea and Black.

Thus we descended from the Alps into the truncated remains of Hitler's Germany and a gnome of a man out of a German fairy tale, the porter of the luxurious hotel in Triberg, told me in English, learned in England before the first war, that the second was a "profound and regrettable mistake." I wondered what he was saying about it ten years ago but I did not ask. He was such a charming little gnome, carved by a fanciful carver in dark brown wood.

As Our Readers See It

ELIGIBLE

Probably many of your readers would be amazed at the admission of Sydney Pickles that he did not make his home at his place in Central Saanich that was burned down last Wednesday night. He made a statement in a pamphlet several years ago when he was fighting for the reversion to the effect that he would rent his house in Oak Bay and make his home at his farm in Central Saanich, so that he could give all his time and attention to the job of reeve. Truth will out—but what we want to know is, is he really eligible to be reeve of Central Saanich?

"SAANICHTON."
(Editor's note: Section 20 of the Municipal Act requires reeves to be British subjects and to have had for at least six months an equity of at least $500 in property within the municipality. There is no reference to residence within the area.)

NOT OUTSTANDING

On Thursday night Mr. Bennett, in answer to the question "What is Social Credit," defined it as the opposite to Socialism. If that is the only thing he can say about Social Credit it simply means that he is still a Conservative and has only used the phony label of Social Credit to gain enough strength to remove the big boulder that blocked his path on the road to power and the premiership. Mr. Bennett is a very astute politician and like all so-called Socrades is an artist at evading awkward questions. His remark, "Oh, how my friends are afraid to hear the true story" is the most accurate statement he has made so far, if taken literally.

The policy of masterly silence on the Socrad party during the late session has now been replaced by a veritable flood of self glorification, both by words and advertisements. One of the latest advertisements asks "the voters of Oak Bay to re-elect Hon. E. M. Gunderson," and calls him "B.C.'s outstanding minister of finance."

When did Oak Bay elect Mr. Gunderson previously? What justification has there been in the last eight months for the title of "outstanding"? Apart from using funds inherited from the previous government and earmarked by them for the purposes for which he has used or proposed to use them, I do not recall anything very original or outstanding in his short term of office.

C. E. ATTER.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

In regard to the great search for David Anderson, which ended so successfully, I would like to say that everyone who took part in the search and helped with supplies has been greatly thanked by radio station CKDA and the press. But I have not heard any thanks given to the boys on the staff of CKDA who did such a marvelous job of keeping contact with all concerned and who gave their time and sleeping hours to the cause.

This is not the first time that these boys have come to the aid of those who were in need, and they all deserve the thanks and appreciation of all the citizens of this area.

So may I, through the medium of your paper, say a great big thank you to the manager and staff of CKDA for another very fine piece of community service, and I am sure that I speak for a great number of Victoria citizens in this way.

Suezicide

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

I'M getting a little tired of the theory that children (unlike grown-ups) tell lies only from fear. A good many of their lies are inspired by fear, certainly—as with grown-ups. But exactly like grown-ups, children also lie for various other reasons—some of them good reasons and some not. They will lie, as you and I do, for the following reasons which I can think of offhand: to spare another's feelings; from laziness; from pride; for profit; to save tedious explanations; to avoid being preached at; to give fools something they can understand; from loyalty; as a general matter of policy; as an intellectual exercise; as a private joke; and many another reason too. Just because a few grown-ups devote most of their lives to fear, it doesn't mean all children do. The best juvenile liar I ever met was absolutely fearless. And on the opposite side, I have known several very timid kids who were afraid to deceive anyone. The trouble with psychologists is, they generalize far too much. In other words, they are anything but scientific.

MORE PSYCHOLOGY

LAST month, in the Weekend magazine of this paper, one Marcia Winn was telling me what to do about unwholesome language in my young. According to my own limited experience, she was partly right, too. She said a kid will realize in time that foul talk isn't socially acceptable. But I think she was a little wrong in implying that a kid doesn't talk smut when she can't hear him. She can't be a very accomplished eavesdropper! What she hears is nothing, absolutely nothing, compared with what she's missing.

AND I can't feel she is wholly right in suggesting that we might try the treatment of saying "We don't do that in OUR house," and setting up our own house as something a bit holier than the other houses on the street. This has its dangers. If the child doesn't find you a hypocrite, he may fall into the habit of feeling himself better than his chums. It's one thing to let him see you've got a bit of sense, and quite another to let him see you're snooty. Though as Mrs. Winn more or less indicates, there is no harm in his trying to be a gentleman. Provided his desire to be a gentleman sprouts from the proper motives.

The only difficulty here is this: to what extent can you have ANY motive for wanting to be a gent, and still be a gentleman? This has nothing to do with Class Struggle, a war that died out long ago. It died out for two reasons—lack of classes, and lack of struggle.

I used to be said, with more than a little truth, that a gentleman is a man who doesn't care if he is one or not. (There are other definitions, each with its slight defect. "A gentleman is a man who is never rude except on purpose," and so on. They are all useful, too, which is the cream of the jest.)

Now, I am all for bringing up a boy (or even a girl, who is allowed to be much ruder and more unkind) to believe in certain minimum standards of urbanity and civility and all that. And I hope that any observant boy or intuitive girl will take this through its pores, from mere immersion, and not have to stand much prosing and preaching and the striking of a statueque pose on the part of its silly parents.

BELIEVE me, the thing for a kid to do is to copy, and to copy almost without having to think about it, is daily and habitual courtesy.

It used to be called courtesy, and it covered everything from the behavior of the saints (and their Betters) to common avoidance of common fuss. Does this depend on sanctimonious moralizing, or self-congratulation, or a search for definite rules? I can hardly think so. I'll go further, I can hardly bear to think about it at all, for it embarrasses me. Another thing that embarrasses me is to think what the psychologists have decided to call courtesy. Social homework, probably. With a special branch named Courtship of Animals, Human Department.

AND yet, even in a family which takes courtesy for granted, and which finds example a lot better than precept... another very old-fashioned way of expressing things, like the word "courtesy"... even here there must be some slight discussion of rules, I suppose. A casual and logical discussion, without any appeal to pride, and without benefit of preaching.

For what it is worth, let me tell you this: instead of waiting for society (such as it is) to teach you its rules, as suggested by Mrs. Winn, and instead of a kid being told that his house is unique in what it exacts from him... instead of these alternatives, why on earth can't the kid be told that society is arbitrary, society is as whimsical as any girl, and society is a dirty bully, too? But to save trouble all round, it is just as well to obey society, and to know its rules in advance.

ANY kid can figure out the sensible rules in advance, from what he sees at home. But you can help him with the silly ones, which he couldn't have foreseen. Such as the fact that the word "bloody" will get him whippings at school, and queer looks from his girlfriend's mamma. If it is necessary for him to have a girlfriend at all, at such an age, which some non-psychologists doubt. If you say "This word will get you into trouble at school, things being what they are," he can understand that. And remember it, too!

Inspiration From Others

It is surprising to find that there is organized opposition to the plan to teach in Canadian schools the art, or science, of effective living.

If those who combat this idea will read "Why Didn't You Get That Promotion?" in the current (May) issue of Reader's Digest they will change their views on this subject, if they are open-minded. It says that for promotion to executive positions one's "know-how" is 20 per cent and human relations 80 per cent. Those who are taught effective living will learn to maintain correct human relations and will consequently be much happier and more successful.

I am an American (retired consul-general from China) and learned much from the lives of eminent Canadians like Lord Strathcona, Sir William Osler, and Jacob Gould Schurman, who was a famous educator and held several very high American government positions.

Canadians in school can derive much inspiration through reading about men of this type in various countries, including their own, and by studying the methods by which they lived so effectively. I cannot see how anyone can regard this plan as even debatable. Millions of Americans have been greatly helped by reading Sir William Osler's "A Way of Living."

It was first delivered by him as a lecture at Yale University and has been widely quoted in American magazines, and was printed as a small book in several editions. He, in turn, relates how he was inspired by Thomas Carlyle. The chain of such fine influences should not be broken now. New links should be added by both Canadian and American schools. They are needed everywhere.

P.S.—To forestall any possible criticism, I should add that I am aware that the three eminent Canadians above mentioned were not always Canadian, but they were regarded as such and started their careers in this country and exemplified the finest Canadian traditions.

For the Children, Bless 'em

IF YOU'RE the fond parent of a preschool child you probably wonder what you can do to help his development. Or you can be the fond parent of a preschool child and wonder how you can get the kid out from under your feet a few hours a day.

Stott

Garden Library seed Gertrude McGill planted. She sees more support for it among the parents who have been taking Bill Gaddes' child psychology night school course at college during recent weeks.

You notice the need for a co-operative play group, she says, when you talk to mothers of other preschool youngsters over a cup of coffee or a cup of tea. They have the same problems as you have. They're looking for some constructive way in which they can employ the children's time. But—and it's a pretty big "but"—most of them think a solution would cost a lot of money.

COST SHARING

Not particularly, Grace says, not if you do it on a co-operative basis. Costs per child shouldn't run over $5 or $6 a month, which is less than most people pay for cigarettes. You start out by gathering together 15 or 20 parents interested in a joint activity of this kind. Then you look for suitable quarters. You may find them in a church or community hall or somebody's rumpus room. They have to meet fire and sanitary requirements, but they can get them free, so much the better.

You interest a lot of fathers in providing equipment. They can do that by cutting down the legs of discarded kitchen tables to child-size, building benches, making easels and pitching in to put up some outdoor play equipment, like jungle-gyms and sand-boxes.

After that you look around for a competent person to supervise the play group. Often a retired school teacher or a married teacher who can put in three to five mornings a week will take the job. She has to be interested in the work or she wouldn't do it for the amount your group can afford to pay—perhaps $40 or $50 a month.

You overcome the funds shortage by working the mothers. One is assigned each day to play group functions.

THEY LEARN TOO

If one of your mothers isn't too adaptable for work in the treatment of children, she can take on another job, washing aprons or looking after transportation. But she can learn, too, how to handle youngsters by participating in the group activity.

Rotated among members, a parent's attendance is required one every week or two. And the assignments are given out by a supervising mother, elected by members.

The scheme works with from 15 to 20 children between the ages of four and six, though the five-year-olds are favored.

The kids learn mainly how to get along with other kids, how to behave in groups, how not to show-off and how to be considerate. Grace says they like it. They like the responsibilities given to the older ones. They like the finger-painting, the work on the easels, the hammering jobs and modeling.

And from 9.30 to 11.30 each morning while the group is in session parents know where the small fry is, what it's doing and that it's being given instruction of some value.

Three times a year the play group adults hold clinics, exchanging ideas and listening to experts. In addition, they have regular discussions led by such people as Bill Gaddes, Edna Lawrence, mental health co-ordinator for Greater Victoria, and Ruby McKay, child welfare representative.

Grace says the dividends are big from the small investment. And as far as she's concerned it answers, to a large extent, the question of what to do with youngsters until they're old enough to go to school.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

America's Larynx Speaks

THE man in charge of the post-McCarthy Voice of America is Dr. Robert L. Johnson, an advertising man-turned educator who says he "makes kind of a hobby" of the public service. As the producer of America's voice, he is, in effect, America's Larynx.

America's Larynx is pretty inflated at the moment. The President's Commission on Psychological Warfare has shown an ugly tendency to lop several provinces off the Johnson empire, which includes all the government's overseas information activities. In order to hear about this threatened "fragmentation" (as the doctor indignantly describes it) one of these reporters recently called at the doctor's new office in one of the dingier State Department annexes.

The call was a failure in a sense. The big fragmentation problem was all but forgotten. America's Larynx turned out to be far too interesting a phenomenon in his own right.

The doctor is a dapper, smallish man. His speech is a strong, rich flow, studded with reminiscences of the thousand pep talks of his advertising years. He receives visitors with the assistance of two lieutenants, who play much the same roles in the conversation as the first and second photographers in Jean Cocteau's Dada drama, "The Marriage Party on the Eiffel Tower." The public service note is struck at once, or at least it was in this case.

"I've always been interested in government," said the doctor, "and I guess I know most of the people who've been in government, like Tom McCloy, for example."

"Jack McCloy," put in one of the lieutenants.

"Yes, John McCloy," continued the doctor, firmly, adding that he hadn't exactly consulted McCloy, but he had a very good idea that McCloy wanted him to take over the Voice of America; and besides he had been strongly encouraged to do so by one of the journalists closest to Senator McCarthy. "When the President asks you to come, you come," he concluded.

How was the doctor's gift of salesmanship to be employed in speaking for America? The question was quickly answered.

"I believe I've got three main targets," said Dr. Johnson.

"I want to stir up the people behind the iron curtain. I want to separate some of the satellite countries. I've got to try to keep the free countries free."

It seemed a tall order. Just what was meant by "separating some of the satellite countries," the doctor was asked.

"Oh," said the doctor, "I mean a revolution really. I think if they know in those countries how some people are always opposing the government, and how they're being constantly liquidated, they'll come to the West."

"There seems to be some question about government policy on encouraging revolutions," said one of the lieutenants, rather hastily.

The doctor amiably agreed that government policy would have to control his efforts, but added he would hardly be able to accomplish anything unless the whole U.S. information empire were left intact in his hands. One of the lieutenants produced a statement by Senator McCarthy, strongly condemning "fragmentation" of the Johnson empire as an Achesonian plot. The doctor explained that Senator McCarthy "felt this was a very vital program," and remarked that the Senator had "helped him a lot."

Star Admits Picture Was Bad

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The star of Hollywood's first 3D epic admits the picture was bad.

But it did wonders for the movie business, himself included, says Robert Stack, the glamour boy of the society and cinema circuit. He was the leading actor in Arch Oboler's "Bwana Devil," the independent film that caused a revolution in the film industry.

"The picture was bad," Stack admitted. "But Oboler is now a millionaire. How can you argue with that?"

The actor added that he is black and blue from kicking himself. He could have had a 10 per cent cut of the picture, instead of taking his salary.

"But I couldn't see it," he sighed. "We were pioneering all the way. So I decided to take my money while I could. If I had taken the 10 per cent instead I would now be ahead $150,000."

Stack told me these facts between the blasts of jet airplanes. He was working at San Fernando Valley airport on "Sabre Jet," the first air epic about fighter pilots over Korea.

"The basic story of 'Bwana Devil' sounded okay, so I signed to do the picture," he remarked. "The script turned out to be bad. It was incredibly difficult."

"The technicians had no precedent to go by. They had no idea of how to take advantage of the depth illusion. The color was off. The two prints were different colors, producing a strange kind of brown when viewed with both eyes."

"But you've got to hand the credit to Oboler. He stuck it through and did the experimenting that the major studios have profited from."

By the end of the summer, Stack will have completed five pictures in a row.

"I did a picture called 'The Bullfighter and the Lady' three years ago," he remarked. "The film was acclaimed by critics of all the newspapers and magazines. I did not work for a year and two months! But after 'Bwana Devil,' which was panned by everyone, I've had all the parts I can handle. The picture gave me a saturation of the film market."

"I can feel it in the fan mail. The fans have been writing more since 'Bwana Devil' and they seem more familiar."

Uranium Production Possible in Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—G. H. Finland, secretary-manager of the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines, said Tuesday that there is a possibility of uranium production in Alberta.

Mr. Finland told an Edmonton service club that uranium formations in the northwest corner of Saskatchewan extend into Alberta.

PARKING METERS PAY

SASKATOON (CP)—Parking meters have realized a net profit of $20,220 since they were installed here three years ago.

City Treasurer Dennis Fusedale said Tuesday gross revenues since July, 1950, have totalled $111,155. A total of $73,917 was subtracted to cover capital and operating costs, leaving $37,237.

City council this year decided to take the equivalent of one mill's taxation from meter revenues to keep the property mill rate down, reducing to $20,220 the amount in the off-street parking fund.

BOND REDEMPTION

REGINA (CP)—Early redemption of a $3,000,000 provincial bond issue, due for redemption Jan. 2, 1954, will save the province $75,000 in interest charges, Provincial Treasurer James Macdonald said Tuesday.

The province is giving the required one month's notice for redemption of the bonds July 2, Mr. Fines said, which would save the difference between the 3 1/2 per cent interest rate payable on the bonds and the 3 per cent rate receivable on deposits to redeem the bonds. This would amount to 3 per cent on $5,000,000, which saving the government would get for six months only.

YOUTH DROWNED

BRANDON (CP)—Gerald Smith of the Napinka district was drowned in the Souris River, 65 miles southwest of here, Tuesday. The 16-year-old youth was with his brother when the mishap occurred. The body was recovered shortly after the accident.

NO JURISDICTION

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government has no jurisdiction over certification of unions in the province, provincial treasurer C. M. Fines says. Commenting Tuesday on a report that the Communist-dominated International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, an independent union, is organizing mine workers at Uranium City in northern Saskatchewan, Mr. Fines said "this is not a matter that the government has any jurisdiction over. The certification of trade unions is a matter which is in the hands of the labor relations board."

Loop Roads to Better Trade, Edgelow's Aim

Road to Port Renfrew Visualized
As Part of Vital Island System

Loop roads would go far toward doubling Vancouver Island's tourist business, Esquimalt Liberal candidate Geoffrey I. Edgelow said Tuesday night at a meeting in View Royal Community Hall. There was an audience of 22.

"Tourists want to drive, but they don't want to retrace their steps," he said. "Let's give them roads. All we have to do is keep the same number of tourists here twice as long and we'd double our business with them."

He said a road to Port Renfrew, which he will strive to have built if he is elected, would form part of Vancouver Island's first loop road.

"We in Esquimalt would have the support of Andrew Whisker, Liberal candidate in Cowichan-Newcastle, to take the road back to the highway via Shawnigan Lake or some other route," he said.

Mr. Edgelow criticized Frank Mitchell, CCF candidate and former member, for voting in the Legislature against amendments to the Water Act that would allow improvement districts to borrow from the government at 3½ per cent interest instead of having to sell debentures at from 5 to 6 per cent.

Edgelow said he had petitions signed by 75 per cent of the ratepayers asking for institution of fire protection districts," he said.

"Mr. Mitchell said in his present campaign that he voted against the amendments to keep taxes down, yet 75 per cent of the people wanted these districts," Mr. Edgelow said.

"Frank Mitchell is a fine, hard-working young man," he said, "but I wonder if he has the time to represent a riding the size of Esquimalt. If he had, he would have known what the people wanted."

He was supported by Ronald Grant, who called Social Credit part members "hypocrites of the worst kind."

"They talk about Christian principles in one breath, and sex in schools in the next," he said. "Members of Social Credit are people seeking the

Heavy Industry Bows to Needs of Robin Family

Mother robin, upper left, who built nest in arm around column under A. P. Slade Ltd. warehouse being built on Johnson Street, has delayed work on $350,000 project. Choice of home for at least three babies, possibly more, has employees like H. E. Nunn, right, scratching head. Andrew Olson, labor foreman for Commonwealth Construction Co., told crews stripping forms to "find other work in the building until the birds can fly." Babies are thriving despite daily clatter. THE ALTERNATIVE VOTE

The law allows you to cast your vote even without marking your preferences if you so want. That is called "plumping." (Later in this series it will be explained why plumping doesn't help you or your candidate.)

Those are the simple mechanics of voting.

DECIDING YOUR VOTE

In deciding how to mark your preference votes there is, however, a little more thinking to be done than under the old single cross method.

Here is the way to look at it. There are Doe, Roe, G. Stiles and J. Stiles on the ballot, as in the illustration.

Roe is your boy. He's the one you want elected. So you mark him No. 1.

You think Roe is a pretty smart chap, nice fellow. He pretty well represents your way of political thinking.

NOT A CUNCH

But you also realize that Roe isn't an absolute cunch to get a majority of the votes. Supposing he is defeated and you had a second chance to vote for one of the other three, Doe, G. Stiles or J. Stiles.

Well, to start with you know J. Stiles is a stinker. You wouldn't vote for him if he was the last man on earth. So the only thing for dirty old J. Stiles is No. 4. (In a four-man contest the No. 4 alternative is never counted, so it could be just as well left blank if you really feel you can't bring yourself to make any mark against his name.)

That leaves you G. Stiles and Doe for your second and third spots. Well, you guess maybe G. Stiles isn't such a bad old stick after all. Not nearly in the class of Roe, mind you. But then if Roe can't make it, perhaps you'd like to see G. Stiles beat the others. So G. Stiles goes into No. 2 spot, and that leaves Doe for No. 3 and your ballot is completed.

So you leave the poll, pulling as hard as ever for Roe. But there's one thing sure. You've done all you can to make sure that if Roe can't make the grade

John Doe, of Victoria, Merchant. (Space for political party or interest.)
ROE.	1
Richard Roe, of Richfield, Miner. (Space for political party or interest.)
STILES, GEORGE.	2
George Stiles, of Nanaimo, Solicitor. (Space for political party or interest.)
STILES, JOHN.	4
John Stiles, of Atlin, Barrister-at-law (Space for political party or interest.)

that dirty old stinker J. Stiles won't. Because you've marked preferences for G. Stiles and Doe. And if Roe doesn't beat

Coast Campaigning Needs Pioneer Resourcefulness

PORT ALBERNI — Political campaigning in the far-flung Alberni riding calls for a strongly developed pioneer instinct.

CCF candidate John Squire recently completed a 10-day trip through his hinterland that took him to west coast communities such as Ucluelet, Tofo, Kayoquot, Zeballos, Ceepee, and Ahousat.

With aircraft dependent on weather conditions and no connecting roads, Mr. Squire dependent on trollers, fish-packers and even canoes to take him to the hamlets, clinging to the rugged ocean coast. He slept where he could, sometimes rolled in a blanket on a cabin floor, and occasionally aboard a fishboat. On his trip he found loggers and fishermen anxious to have compensation coverage, and all residents eager to have auto road outlets from their communities, possibly through connecting logging roads.

The underground is as efficient as ever. It is good to see among things missing those steel bunks where thousands slept every night in the tubes. Advertising in the tubes during the war was confined almost entirely to theatres, because they were the only people who had anything to sell. Now there are ads for everything, from Buckingham: palace of the Queen. So huge (600 rooms) it needs 200 servants. (10,000 windows keep a crew of washers busy full time!) So unswayable, George VI tried to sell it to a hotel group; so hard to heat, George VI dubbed it the "icebox"; so vast, things get lost in it for centuries. PATRIOTISM OF ROMANIAN WINS PRAISE

Naturalized American Chooses U.S. Over Sons

WASHINGTON (UP) —

Members of Congress today praised the courageous patriotism of V. C. Georgescu, the naturalized American who spurned a chance to ransom his two children from Red Romania by betraying his adopted country.

The Communist attempt to blackmail Georgescu into espionage angered lawmakers of both parties, and brought demands that the United States close down the Romanian legation.

But official anger was mixed with a feeling of frustration, born from the knowledge that there is very little this country can do to protect the lives of the two teen-age boys held somewhere in a Romanian prison camp.

The state department, which already has ordered a Romanian diplomat out of the country for the blackmail attempt, apparently planned no further action. Officials said this country had no plans to break off diplomatic relations with Romania.

The story of parental heroism came to light Tuesday when the department announced the expulsion of Christache Zambreli, first secretary of the Romanian legation here. It disclosed that he had approached Georgescu in New York with an offer to release their children to come to America if the parents would become spies for Romania.

Instead, Georgescu went to the FBI with the whole story, trusting that outraged world opinion would prevent Romanian authorities from harming the children.

East-West Issues on Agenda For Commonwealth Leaders

LONDON (Reuters) — The nine Commonwealth prime ministers, meeting here next week after the Coronation, will plunge right into a discussion of East-West issues.

At their opening session next Wednesday they will exchange views on the Western Big Three meeting in Bermuda and on Prime Minister Churchill's proposal for high-level talks with Russia, it was learned Tuesday. Other subjects on the agenda include:

Middle East problems, including the Anglo-Egyptian dispute on the Suez and the Anglo-Iranian oil issue.

WILGRESS SEES ECONOMIC DANGER

U.S. Must Provide Leadership if World Trade Blocs Are To Be Happy, Says Canadian

TORONTO (CP) — L. CO-ED IN COMA FOR 96 DAYS GETS $35,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Miss Edna Achymichuk, 22-year-old university student who was unconscious for 96 days after she was injured in a traffic accident 14 months ago, was awarded $35,000 compensation in the British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday.

The car in which she was a passenger was in collision with a trolley bus March 13, 1952.

The award is against B.C. Electric, George T. Smith, bus driver, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Evans, owners of the car.

Junior Forest Wardens Conduct Rally Saturday

First rally of junior forest wardens to be staged in Victoria will take place at the Victoria Grounds, Beacon Hill Park, Saturday.

Junior wardens from the Greater Victoria area and some outside groups will take part. Territorial director for the Canadian Forestry Association, Percy Sills, said today the youths will be welcomed by Chief Warden W. Myring.

Novelty races and contests will be followed by demonstration by the B.C. Forest Service trusting that forest fire fighting equipment. There will be free pop and ice cream and presentations will be made for proficiency.

U.S. Reciprocal Trade Act Extension May Be Shelved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing official has been said, but it appears highly possible that the extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act may still be on the shelf when Congress quits for the year.

Following Monday's White House legislative conference, Speaker Joseph Martin (R., Mass.) of the House of Representatives, listed reciprocal trade as "must" legislation.

But considerable sentiment was reported in the House to let the act expire and then write a new law after a special commission to study the whole question of tariffs has reported to the president. President Eisenhower asked Congress to authorize such a commission. The Senate has approved the idea, and the matter is pending in the House.

GEORGE KULAI

JOHN WELDON

To Guide Destinies of City All-Stars

When Victoria All-Stars meet the touring Irish international soccer team at Athletic Park June 2, three men upon whom most of the responsibility will rest are manager Tommy Restell, coach George Kulai and captain John Weldon. Restell and Kulai were in a similar capacity when the Island All-Stars defeated Fulham, 1-0, two years ago. Weldon is regarded as the key to the proposed plan of attack of the locals. (Times photo.)

BASEBALL COMMISSIONER LIKES HIS SLEEP, TOO

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick, looking out sadly from high, high office at a drizzle which threatened to cancel his first golfing date of the spring, said he was hanged if he knew how to speed up baseball games and only wished that he did. "Such atrocities as that three-hour, 52-minute game between the Yankees and the Red Sox wear people out," he said. "They are bad enough in the daytime, but even worse at night. How is a man who's got to get up and go to work going to sit a game out until 12:30 in the morning? I wouldn't."

Work to Start Soon On BE Games Stadium

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games here are responsible for probably world's biggest divot. Sometime next month after the honorary games chairman, Mayor Fred Hume of Vancouver, returns from the Coronation, that divot will be dug. After appropriate ceremonies, bulldozers will slice into a neat little nine-hole golf course to dig the foundation for the games' big site—a $1,365,000 stadium. With 26,511 permanent concrete seats, the horse-shoe-shaped stadium is to be built on the grounds of the Pacific National Exhibition. The PNE gets "sole custody, control and management" of the stadium after the games. And if there's a thought that June, 1953, is none too soon to start construction of such a giant stadium for use at the end of July, 1954—relax. Construction work can be carried out the year round in balmy Vancouver. On top of the 26,511 permanent seats now planned, the end of the horse-shoe may be closed in with temporary bleachers if necessary, boosting the capacity to 35,000. As an indication of progress in coping with the million-and-one details that go into such a world-wide sporting carnival as this—each seat now has a number, the tickets are designed and printing will soon begin.

Tomlinson Whiffs 16 In Minor Ball Action

Bob Tomlinson mowed down Combines Tuesday night at Macdonald Park as James Bay fashioned a 7-5 juvenile baseball victory over Combines. Tomlinson, Bay's star pitcher, struck out 16 batters in seven innings in one of the best bits of minor pitching of the season. Terry Campbell of Speedway came close to matching Tomlinson as he whiffed 14 to help

AND THEY THOUGHT EDMONDS WAS TOUGH!

Bays Get a Husky Lesson

BY DENNY BOYD
Norm Edmonds is a rarin' and hollerin' type rowing coach but he should have a much easier time putting points across to his JBAA crew after last week-end. Edmonds took his eight-man crew to Lake Washington over the week-end for a 2,000-metre race with the University of Washington's freshman crew and while there, the local galley slaves were exposed to the Husky varsity coach, fiery Al Ulbrickson. "We were all in the new Husky clubhouse," Edmonds was relating, "when Ulbrickson came in to talk to the freshmen even though he doesn't touch them until they are ready for the varsity. He just stood there looking at the freshmen for a while. Then he said, 'I hear you're all a bunch of terrific rowers. I wonder if you'd be good enough to give me your autographs.'"

As for the race itself, the local crew got off to a bad start. Although won by four lengths, the Husky frosh could pick up only half a length on the Bays, who lost the race at the starting post but finished strongly. So impressed were the Washington coaching staff with Edmonds' charges that the Bays may receive a staff eight-man shell, courtesy of the U of W. Edmonds said that the consensus of opinion at Washington regarding the pending national rowing championships at Syracuse, June 20, is that Washington will clean up in the freshman and jayvee races but that Navy's mighty eight, Olympic and defending champions, and unbeaten in 19 starts, will win the varsity event.

Pils Trip Tribe, Irish Host Sons

Pilseners 10, Indians 4
Victoria Shamrocks will give Nanaimo Native Sons a lesson in lacrosse when the two Intercity Lacrosse League teams meet at Memorial Arena.

The rambunctious Sons, who have had every club in the league howling with anger over rough treatment received at the hands of the Coaltoners, received a stern warning from league headquarters and apparently took it to heart, sticking strictly to lacrosse and scoring an upset victory over Vancouver Pilseners Saturday night. With this in mind, the Rocks will give Tommy Druce, their number one policeman and trouble-shooter, a well-deserved rest tonight.

Druce, who is Johnny-on-the-spot when a teammate is being roughed up, will be replaced by Jackie Thompson on the Irish defense, partnering Norm Coates who will be back in the line-up after missing three games with a foot injury.

Coates will be taking Len Scott's place while rookie Bill Bamford and Bob Anderson will be the other defensive pairing in front of goalie Jim Hetherington. Dave Unwin will be spare goalie. Al Gill will work with Whitey Seyerson and Larry Booth on the first forward line, the other attacking units being Harry Irwin, Duff McCaghey and Bob Monaghan, and Jim Ranson, Jackie Northup and Sarge Sammartino.

Pilseners sliced Shamrocks' first-place margin to a single point Tuesday night when they scored a 10-4 victory over the hot and cold PNE Indians. Pils built up a 6-3 lead at the half and held the Indians to a single goal in the second half.

Tyees Show More Fans Second Win

Hodges Stars In Relief Over Chiefs

Victoria 14, Wenatchee 10
By BILL WALKER

The Sedative was a little more soothing Tuesday night for the Tyees as they outlasted Wenatchee Chiefs, 14-10, for their second WIL victory in as many days.

The attendance, which carries with it as much, if not more, importance than the game result this fortuitous week, rose to 1,369 from Monday night's 1,108. Ten thousand fans in the present seven-game home stand has been set as the objective by the club, and even that total is only a nebulous yardstick as far as the Tyees' future is concerned, a decision on which will likely be made next week.

The true test still is: Do Victorians want baseball? Only an increasing number each night will answer that query to the complete satisfaction of those primarily concerned with the club's financial future.

Tonight, Wenatchee Chiefs played out their three-game visit. They will be followed by the hard-hitting Yakima Bears, Thursday through Saturday.

And if tonight's game has as much action as Tuesday's, even though some of the fireworks were of a negative nature, the time spent will be interesting indeed.

Even the umpires got in the act Tuesday as the Tyees took an early 2-0 lead, lost it to the Chiefs, took a longer 14-3 margin in rebuttal and then hung on grimly in the ninth as the Chiefs rammed across six runs and threatened more.

Plate official Red Eller drew the ire of most, especially manager Cec Garriott of the Tyees, when he missed a balk on Wenatchee pitcher Charles Oubre and a Tyee rally was nipped in the bud in the third. But turn about (by design or otherwise) is fair play, "he said, and Eller confirmed the axiom when Oubre had Chuck Abernathy struck out in the seventh; only to find Eller and his cohort in blue star gazing.

Abernathy went on to draw a base on balls which followed an inning-opening single by Garriott, and before the Chiefs could draw their next restful breath, the Tyees had scored six runs. Oubre was in the showers and Pete Younie, a Vancouver youngster, was cleaning up the mess.

Younie was tagged for the final three Tyee runs in the eighth which came in much more handy than at first realized. This was obvious when the Chiefs went on their ninth-inning warpath, highlighted by Jake Helmut's bases-loaded home run off Tyee reliever Beryl Hodges.

APPLYING THE STOPPER
However, despite the scare, Hodges was probably the hero of the piece.

With the Chiefs leading 3-2, starter Bill Wisneski asking for a change, the bases loaded and nobody out in the fifth, Hodges was waved from the bullpen. He got catcher Harry Bartolomei on a fly ball and forced Mike McCormick, who was to hit a home run in the eighth, to ground into a double play.

Wisneski faltered first in the fourth, allowing three runs after the Tyees had taken a 2-0 lead in the first, Gully driving home both tallies.

Hodges showed command of the situation until the ninth when his control deserted him. Errors by Don Pries and Chuck Abernathy didn't help matters. Tonight Zebadiah Walker will attempt to complete the series sweep which, if successful, could move the Tyees into third place.

Game time is 8 o'clock.

MAY RIDE CANADIANA

Arcaro Given Choice For Queen's Plate

TORONTO (BUP)—Eddie Arcaro will have his choice of two of E. P. Taylor's entries to ride in the Queen's Plate at Woodbine Park next Tuesday, it was announced today.

Taylor said the top-notch hardboot could take his pick of either Canadiana or Lively Action. He said Arcaro had ridden for him several times in the United States and wanted a crack at the Queen's Plate.

Jockey Jose Vina, who was up on Canadiana when she finished fourth in a division of the plate trials last Saturday, will ride the mount that Arcaro rejects.

Taylor said Canadiana's poor showing Saturday was no fault of Vina's and had no bearing on his seeking Arcaro's services.

Another American jockey, Sam Boulmetis, will ride the Addison stable filly Avella in the Canadiana classic. Canadiana will be given her final workout for the big race

U.S. RUGGERS DECLINE COCKTAILS, NIP AUSSIES

CANBERRA, Australia (UP)—The American all-star rugby team touring Australia, in its first official game, today beat Southern New South Wales, 34 to 25, with a second-half rally.

Before the match Mike Dimitro, manger-trainer of the American team, had refused to permit his players to attend a cocktail party sponsored by American Ambassador Peter Jarman.

BRUSA RELEASED

New Pitcher To Join Tyees

Victoria Tyees have released yet another player and signed a left-handed pitcher.

Following Tuesday's announcement that Pitcher Mike Williams had been dropped, General Manager Reg Patterson late Tuesday night announced that catcher Sam Brusa had been given his outright release while Pitcher Earl Dollins would join the club Thursday.

Dollins formerly played with team manager Cec Garriott at Visalia in the California State League. His best record was last year when he won 19 and lost 11.

Dollins started the season with Lewiston Broncos. Release of Brusa leaves the Tyees with one catcher, Earl Martin. However, utility infielder Herman Charles can share plate duty if the need arises.

Several other player deals are also pending. Patterson intimated, but is believed that these will be held in abeyance until the club's financial situation and future are more clearly defined.

With Collins' arrival, the Tyees will conform to the WIL player limit of 18 men.

Indians Score Eighth Straight WIL Victory

A four-run outburst in the 10th inning gave Spokane Indians a 7-3 victory over Edmonton Tuesday night and stretched their Western International Baseball League winning streak to eight straight.

The win, second in the three-game series at Edmonton, moved Indians within five games of first-place Lewiston and only a game and a half out of second place.

Elsewhere around the league, Lewiston sat out another rainstorm at Calgary, while Yakima clubbed Vancouver 8-2 at Vancouver and Salem trimmed Tri-City 11-5 at Tri-City.

'Jolly' Charlie Never Jollier

Everyone knew that Milwaukee Braves were improved over last year, but even manager Charlie Grimm, the optimist eternal, didn't dare dream that his outfit would be leading the National League with more than a month of the season gone.

Grimm's club staggered home seventh last year, 32 games behind Brooklyn Dodgers who won the pennant, and his prediction this year was fifth and with plenty of breaks perhaps fourth.

This is a team that should get better before it gets worse, too. Neither Sid Gordon nor Andy Pafko have been hitting, and these two veterans figure to be the mainstays of the attack along with Eddie Mathews and Joe Adcock. Both Gordon and Pafko are under .250.

Grimm's youth movement is panning out even better than he expected, but in the long run it will be the veterans like Gordon and Pafko, along with pitchers Max Surkont 6-0 and Warren Spahn 4-1 who will spell the difference between a struggling club or one with confidence.

Spahn, a four-time 20-game winner, hurled the Braves to a four-hit 6-0 victory over Cincinnati Reds Tuesday to pull his team one and one-half games ahead of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory was the 12th in the last 16 games for the Braves and was the sixth straight game in which they have not made an error. They lead the league in defense.

The Cards split a double-header with Chicago Cubs. The Redbirds won the opener 6-3 but dropped a 3-2 decision to Turk Lown in the nightcap.

St. Louis has been cutting a swath through the league, too. The defeat in the afternoon was only the second in the last nine games.

Harvey Haddix had an easy time in the opener with Red Schoendienst supplying most of the power. The second baseman had a perfect three-for-three, including a home run, and drove in three runs.

In the second game, the Cards looked to be on their way to another triumph. They were leading 2-0 in the sixth inning on the strength of bases empty home runs by Vinegar Bend Mizell and Enos Slaughter. But the Cubs got rid of Mizell in the sixth and held off the Redbirds the rest of the way.

Both Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox picked up a half-game on the idle New York Yankees in the American League. The second-place Indians fought off a ninth-inning rally by Detroit Tigers to pull it out 9-8 on a home run by Larry Doby and the Pale Hose polished off St. Louis Browns 8-2. Both were night engagements.

Charles Scores 10th Straight Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Edward Charles knocked Larry Watson down four times in the fifth round Tuesday night before the Omaha light heavy, who watched the fight from a ringside seat.

Watson, who gave away 13½ pounds, was down once in the crowd at the Milwaukee Arena, third and twice in the fourth

Abrahams Pulls Major Tee Upset

HOYLAK, Eng. (UP)—Robert Abrahams of Addison, Ill., pulled the first major upset in the British amateur golf championship today when he battled through a heavy rain and a sea mist to oust Walker Cup player Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia, 1 up, on the 19th hole of their third-round match.

The weather around the Royal Liverpool course returned to "normal" today after producing brilliant sunshine for most of Tuesday's action. Forecasters said the rain would stop by noon but the first of the 19 Americans still in the tournament slogged over the 7,078-yard course in a virtual cloudburst.

A mist, rolling in from the Irish sea, added to the work of the players, who played third and fourth round matches today.

McHale, rated a 3 to 1 co-favorite with Bill Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., and Joe Carr of Ireland on the basis of practice rounds, held a 1-up lead after nine holes but was unable to hold off Abrahams coming in and lost on the first extra hole.

Maj. W. D. (Dalt) Henderson of New York was the second American loser. He was ousted 6 and 5 by Michael Pearson of England.

Ernest Arend, J. of Deal, N.J., gained the fourth round with a 1-up victory over Ralph Duncan of Scotland on the 20th hole.

Campbell also had a tough match but ousted Dr. Gerry Owens of Ireland, 2 and 1, to enter the fourth round.

Gordon Whitehead, a British fish merchant playing in his first tournament, provided a surprise when he eliminated the highly-regarded Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., 3 and 1, in another third round test. Whitehead upset English champion Gerald Mickelthwait Tuesday.

McHale, who was the runner-up in the 1952 championship from Palm Beach, Fla., reached the fourth round with a one-up victory over Jimmy Bennett of England.

In an all-American third round match, Joe Walter Case of Hendersonville, N.C., eliminated Charles Darwin of Cookeville, Tenn., 6 and 4.

Dr. R. J. Henderson of Worcester, Mass., who entered the third round when his English opponent scratched, gained the fourth round with a 2-and-1 triumph over A. A. McNair, of Scotland.

Capt. E. M. Stokes of Garden City, N.Y., was eliminated by L. R. H. Gracey of England, 2 and 1.

W. S. Adams of Garden City, N.Y., also bowed out, losing to England's I. R. Harris, one up, on the 19th.

Two more Americans were ousted when W. S. Wise of England defeated Pvt. H. T. Mathews, of Atlanta, Ga., 3 and 2, and Ian Young of Scotland beat Capt. J. F. McNeilly of Lynn, Mass., 6 and 5.

Maj. J. F. Seazis of Brandon, Fla., gained the fourth round with a 3-and-2 victory over Mervyn Jones of Wales.

Boxla 'Mighty Mites' Show Wares Tonight

As an added attraction to the Intercity Lacrosse League game at Memorial Arena tonight, a pair of mighty mite teams will play a preliminary game at 7.

Stubbs and Tigers of the Diaper League, kids who are too small for rough stuff but big enough for first class boxla entertainment, will raise the curtain for the feature bout between Victoria Shamrocks and Nanaimo Native Sons.

Tuesday night at Stevenson Park, Fairlocks downed Esquimalt 6-3 while Saanich trimmed Fernwood 9-2 in peevee games.

Les Brice scored three goals for Fairlocks in their second straight victory with single goals being scored by Frank Foster, Bud Taylor and Bruce McLay.

Esquimalt scorers were Reggie Edwards, Tom Wyatt and Bill Fisher.

Scoring for Saanich were: Barry Daniels (3), Bill Powers, Bill Alder, Keith Bosher, Dave Collet, John Fraser and Don Craigdallie.

Ricky and Dennis Young scored the Fernwood goals.

STUDENTS BADLY BEATEN

Gasmen Get Last Laugh

Capital City 15, Chinese Students 8

Chinese Students' mound staff got its lumps, but good, Tuesday night at Central Park as the league leaders of the Senior A Men's Softball League were snuffed under by Capital City Gasmen, 15-8.

The league race tightened up as a result, Gasmen moving into third spot, three points behind Butler's Aces and Students in the first inning with two runs, and Students took the lead in the bottom of the second after Quinton Marr homered off relief hurler Al Wiebe with two mates aboard.

A double steal by Bernie Sam and Tommy Derr in the fifth inning put Students ahead 6-2 and they looked like sure winners with starter Bud Ross coasting along on a five-hitter.

Gasmen went down in order in the sixth, and the student crowd was riding coach Joe Bryant, and his charges incessantly.

Bryant's new left fielder, Gus Hilton, opened the top of the seventh with a clean single through the box and Les Wilson skied out for the first out.

Bill Reynolds walked and Bernie Clarkson cleared the sacks with a tremendous home run to right field and Ross was derided in favor of Barry Jackson.

Jackson walked Verne Evans and Jimmy Morrison beat out an infield roller in front of the plate. Chick Newman singled to centre to drive in Evans with the tying run and went to second base after a bobble in the field.

Newman put the Gasmen ahead 7-6 scoring on a wild pitch and the inning ended with the eleventh batter forcing Hilton at second base.

Gasmen started another parade in the eighth and took advantage of several mental errors by the Students to score three runs on three hits.

They really rubbed it in in the ninth after Wilson led off with a home run. Then Wiebe hit a grand slam blow.

Fraud Charged In Pin Meet

VANCOUVER (CP)—Richard Cassidy, who won an automobile in a bowling contest two weeks ago, was charged with fraud Saturday.

Prosecutor Paul Delaney said Cassidy is alleged to have falsified a bowling average and, by this means, won the car.

Cassidy was remanded until May 29 for preliminary hearing and bail was set at $2,000.

The bowling contest was staged here by the Vancouver Sun and the Elks Club.

Pigeon Racing

The Victoria and District Racing Pigeon Club held its second old bird race from Agassiz, 93 air-line miles. Eighty-nine birds took part in the race.

Victoria Families Smallest in Canada

City Averages Three Persons Per Family Same as Vancouver, Toronto; Nfld. Leads

Only 7,253 of Victoria's 13,632 families have children to 1951 census figures prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

HEADS NFB — Dr. Albert W. Trueman (above), president of the University of New Brunswick, has been named commissioner of the National Film Board. He succeeds W. Arthur Irwin. Dr. Trueman has been a member of the film board since 1950 and is a former member of the CBC board of governors.

Victorians Named To Top Posts by Radio Technicians

D. S. Banfield and H. C. George, both of Victoria, were elected chairman and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the provincial council of Radio Electronic Technicians' Association, at its annual meeting in Chilliwack.

A chief topic for discussion was television prospects for the Pacific Northwest, with emphasis on the Bellingham transmitter which is now radiating test signals.

Technicians reported the signals being well received in most parts of Vancouver and New Westminster and occasionally in the Victoria area.

Bellingham station KVOS-TV, expects to be on the air with full power in time to show coast viewers the CBC film of the Coronation, possibly June 3.

CBC Announces TV Schedules for Coronation Week

TORONTO (BUP) — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced today a full schedule of television programs for Coronation week, highlighted by films of the actual Coronation on Tuesday afternoon.

The Coronation telecast will originate from Montreal as soon as jet planes arrive with the film and are expected to start about 4:30 p.m. (EDT). The films of the ceremony will be repeated at 8 p.m. and films of other parts of the Coronation will be shown until about 2 a.m.

Other programs will include the trooping of the color ceremony on Parliament Hill in Ottawa at 2 p.m. The program includes the ancient ceremony performed by the Governor-General's Foot Guard, music by massed military bands, a 42-gun salute and a fly past of more than 100 aircraft.

The balance of 6,379 families have no children at home. As a result, the average number of persons per family here is three, lowest average in Canada and equalled only by Vancouver and Toronto.

Figures for cities concern only those of 30,000 population and over.

Residents of Three Rivers, Que., are Canada's most prolific urban dwellers, with an average of 4.3 persons per family.

Among provinces, British Columbia ranks lowest with 3.3 persons per family, including all urban and rural dwellers.

Newfoundland leads the nation with 4.4 persons, and Quebec is in second place with 4.2 persons.

National average is 3.7.

ONE CHILD ONLY

Of the Victoria families with children, 3,364, or almost half, have just one child. There are two children in 2,457 families; three in 931, four or five in 445, six to eight in 50 and only six families have nine or more youngsters at home.

Statistics also show that 4,583 families were at the time of the census raising their children on an income of $2,000 to $2,999.

Other divisions by income were: Under $1,000, 566 families; $1,000 to $1,999, 1,816; $3,000 to $3,999, 1,392; $4,000 to $5,999, 368; $6,000 and over 74.

46 Per Cent Less Immigrants to Canada

OTTAWA (BUP) — Immigration to Canada dropped by 46 per cent during the first three months of 1953 in spite of a 40 per cent increase in immigration from the United States, Immigration Minister Walter Harris reported today.

During the three months a total of 22,937 immigrants arrived from all countries, compared with 42,743 during the same period in 1952.

Immigration from the United States rose 40 per cent to 10,000 in the first three months of 1953.

Immigration from other countries fell 46 per cent to 12,937 in the same period.

FEELING SEEDY?

How often do you feel so sluggish and headachy that you just long for the day to be over? You know those days. You feel tenth-rate from the time you wake up in the morning. Every hour seems like two.

Quite possibly you are suffering unnecessarily. If ordinary constipation and sluggish kidneys are preventing proper waste elimination your system is slowly being poisoned. That's what usually makes you feel all dragged-out.

Kruschen Salts are the answer. Because they offer the same benefits as several famous Mineral Springs. Kruschen Salts are a valuable aid because they act two ways—laxative and diuretic. Kruschen is a gentle yet effective laxative and also stimulates healthy kidney action.

Veteran Generals to Advise Simonds on Reserve Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—The army has asked three retired generals to tell it what to do about a big problem child—the reserve force.

Establishment of a three-man board to advise Lt. Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, on reserve force matters was announced Tuesday.

The board will travel across Canada visiting reserve units "to gain first-hand knowledge of the current activities and problems" of the part-time force which in two world wars was the foundation of Canada's overseas fighting effort.

The three members are major-generals Howard Kennedy, CBE, MC, of Ottawa, H. F. G. Letson, CB, CBE, MC, of Vancouver, former secretary to the governor-general, and E. J. Renaud, CB, CBE, of Montreal, former officer commanding the military area with Montreal as headquarters.

The problem of the reserve force has been under study for months at army headquarters. The idea now apparently is to ask the three generals to see for themselves and then to give their views on proposals.

Among them are suggestions that some units be "dormantized" or eliminated except on paper, that others be amalgamated, that some sort of priorities be established so a core of better units could be helped along their way to something approaching readiness.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governor to Her Majesty

The intimate biography of Queen Elizabeth, written by her good friend and former governess Marion Crawford, appears exclusively in the Victoria Daily Times in 29 chapters. Out of her 17 years of close association with the royal family, "Crawford" has previously published "The Little Princess" and "Mother and Queen: The Story of Queen Mary."

XX

The Princesses would always get plenty of exercise from our walks, or riding, or cycling? They did not lack fresh air.

One day, while we were at the Royal Lodge, soon after King George had come to the Throne, I took them for a walk through the woods. They loved the woods and went there often. They were always interested in the varieties of wild flowers and the calls of the birds.

We were puzzled by the relics we found. No matter how peaceful or how secluded a wood is, you will always find somewhere in it a very old and rusty tin bath. We would often come upon these domestic relics—and others—quite a mile from the nearest road. The Princesses were puzzled by them.

"But who would cart a bath all this way?" Princess Elizabeth asked me one day. "Why hide it in the middle of a wood?" As the Princesses and I came back toward the tennis court which at the Royal Lodge is entirely surrounded by a cypress hedge so that only the nets can be seen from the house, we heard the sound of a ball being hit about the court.

Tennis Game Came as Surprise

Always curious, Princess Margaret pushed her head between two branches and peered through. "It's mummy and papa," she told me excitedly, "playing tennis!"

After that we all had to see. The gate was on the far side of the court, quite a long way round. The hedge was not too firm so we clambered through. The King and Queen were playing alone. I thought what a pretty picture she made. She had on a cool print dress and a large shady hat, which, as usual, did not seem to disturb her at all.

Never having seen the Queen playing tennis before, I was amazed at the strength and accuracy of her back-hand drive and her grace on the court.

The King was a fine tennis player who had competed at Wimbledon. The King turned to the Queen and said to her: "Darling, Lilibet and Margaret must learn to play tennis, otherwise they won't be able to enjoy house parties when they grow up."

One Monday, Princess Elizabeth came to me in great excitement. "Papa thinks it's time we were taught tennis," she said. "He's getting a man to coach us."

And so I prepared to join the Princesses to watch while they learned how to play tennis.

The court at Windsor lies below the level of the drive and is pleasantly situated in a sort of grass-covered hollow.

EASY TIME SEEN
In King George V's time it was available to anyone living in the Castle grounds; but few people had been using it lately. I visualized myself taking a hook and deck chair and spending a pleasant time.

At first the coach showed the girls the rhythm of the stroke. He made them practice long sweeps with the rackets, rather as a swimming instructor puts his pupils through dry-land exercises.

Then the coach went to the far end of the court and began lobbing balls over the net toward them.

Now my plan for a peaceful afternoon was shattered. Princess Elizabeth had a naturally powerful stroke, but as yet her aim was not so good as her intention. And Princess Margaret would as often as not hit the ball in the opposite direction from the one she intended.

I was quickly roused out of my comfortable chair to become ball boy.

Needless to say if anything was going on out of doors, the dogs could not be let out of it. So the Princesses would come down to the courts complete with the Corgis—three of them and a lion dog named Cracker. Immediately the whole game began to be enjoyed madly by the dogs, who tore about the court barking and running away with the balls.

In the ensuing chaos it became a wearing tussle for one to get a succession of balls out of "Cracker's" mouth, and eventually I put the leashes on the dogs, anchored the leashes to the legs of a basket chair on which I sat. Even so, I had plenty of exercise.

In all, the coach came about six times. At first the Princesses enjoyed it thoroughly. If this man wanted them to make certain movements with their rackets, they would do their best to oblige him.

MARGARET TIRED
As usual, Princess Margaret was tired of it before Princess Elizabeth, who showed a natural eye. But both were loath to run for the ball when it passed anywhere outside easy reach.

The coach was quick to realize this, and perhaps too ready to give in to it. At any rate he lobbed the balls back so that neither of them had far to move to return them. I was amused by his private report to me when the lessons finished.

"Princess Elizabeth," he told me with great solemnity, "has a good natural eye for the game. But I am afraid she'll never succeed at it until she forces herself to run after the ball a bit more."

He was taking it very seriously. But more important things were coming up for Princess Elizabeth. She was presently to join the Army, and tennis, for the time being, was forgotten. (To Be Continued)

U.K. Market Loss Blamed On Low Prices

OTTAWA (BUP)—Agriculture Minister James Gardiner blamed Britain's low prices Tuesday night for keeping Canadian farm products out of the United Kingdom market.

Gardiner, in a political broadcast over the CBC program, "The Nation's Business," said the Liberal government had obtained "the most secure, most stable and most satisfactory home market we have had for livestock, dairy and poultry products."

The minister said Britain is buying beef in London at 16 cents a pound, while it is being sold in Montreal at 39 cents a pound. He said the United Kingdom was buying bacon at 31 cents a pound, as compared with the Montreal price of 45 cents, butter at 41 cents as against 60 cents in Canada, cheese at 24 cents compared with 39 cents in Montreal, and eggs at 46 cents as compared with 53 cents.

"Why should we wish to sell those products in London at those prices in preference to prices received in Montreal or Toronto?" he asked.

POST OFFICE DISGRUNTLED AT NEW CORONATION STAMP

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department, somewhat discouraged by its new postage stamps of the Queen, is already planning a new set.

The stamps currently on sale in one to five-cent denominations and the special Coronation four-cent which goes on sale Monday, have drawn numerous complaints, and considerable criticism. Walter Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, said Tuesday.

"We can't say we're entirely happy about the new stamps," he said in an interview.

The department doesn't plan to withdraw the issue and has approximately a six-month supply. The stamps probably will last until November, but it may be well on into the new year before there is a new Queen Elizabeth issue to replace them.

It took 18 months to produce the present issue. One week after the death of King George VI post office officials conferred on selection of a photograph of the Queen from which a model of the stamp could be produced.

U.S. LETTERS

NEW YORK (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman Tuesday asked New York's hundreds of thousands of Roman Catholics to write Italian friends and relatives to vote against Communism. The Italian national elections are June 7.

Changes in Victoria Telephone Numbers Next Year

EXCHANGE NAMES, BEACON, EMPIRE AND GARDEN TO BE ABOLISHED

Next spring the Albion, Belmont and Colquitz telephone exchanges will be converted to automatic operation. It will then be possible to dial anywhere within the Greater Victoria area without an interexchange charge.

In connection with this improvement program, the following changes in telephone numbers will be made at the time of the conversion:

Beacon, Empire and Garden Telephones—

The existing numbers will remain as at present as far as the four digits are concerned, but the prefixes, Beacon, Empire and Garden will be replaced by single digits, as follows:

- Beacon to be changed to "2"
- Empire to be changed to "3"
- Garden to be changed to "4"

For example, Beacon-1234 would become 2-1234.

Albion, Belmont and Colquitz Telephones—

The present numbers will be completely changed to meet the requirements of the automatic system. The exchange names, Albion, Belmont and Colquitz will be replaced by single digits as follows:

- Albion to be changed to "7"
- Belmont to be changed to "8"
- Colquitz to be changed to "9"

Party line numbers will not have letters at the end of them. All numbers will consist of the prefix number and four digits.

Example: 9-4321.

New Numbering Plan Will Aid Visitors—

In larger cities such as Vancouver and Seattle, anyone dialing a telephone number dials two letters of the prefix, while in Victoria only one letter is dialed. This leads to telephone errors being made by visitors.

The conversion of the Albion, Belmont and Colquitz exchanges next spring will offer an excellent opportunity to adopt the unified telephone numbering plan outlined above. This will eliminate the dialing of letters. By dispensing with the use of letters, the confusion will be eliminated and dialing simplified.

New Housing Deal Urged for Veterans

Low-Interest Loans Advocated by B.C. Legion Command; Would Change Land Act

Because there is a "serious shortage of adequate housing throughout Canada," the B.C. Command of the Canadian Legion, at the 21st annual convention in Nanaimo Tuesday, passed a recommendation urging low-interest loans for veterans who wish to build their own homes.

Changes in the Veterans' Land Act were also advocated, including revision to permit joint ownership.

The recommendations for the changes in the VLA were:

1. To ensure continuation of contractual payments, the act be amended to require veterans to protect their unpaid balance of contract for the first 10 years through a term-insurance policy which would decrease in face value as the contract payments were made;
2. Supplementary loans and other aid be given to veterans in cases of proved distress, as in floods, droughts, pest and livestock epidemics;
3. Increase the $6,000 loan ceiling for farmland;
4. Reduce minimum acreage to one acre, and, where approved, to less than one acre;
5. That a sum not to exceed $100 be taken from a veteran's credits and the veteran who still has credits be allowed to use them in any way he sees fit.

Early, the Legionnaires voted to suspend debate on miscellaneous general questions, and concentrate on "Legion business first."

Discussions were postponed on resolutions dealing with the price of milk, old-age nursing homes, and steam-generated electric power for Vancouver Island.

A resolution to endorse formation of a Canadian Legion Secretaries' Association in B.C. was defeated after heated debate.

Albert Spalding, Noted Violinist, Dies at 64

NEW YORK (UP)—Albert Spalding, noted violinist, died Tuesday night at his home of a cerebral hemorrhage.

The Chicago-born artist was stricken as he and his wife were preparing to go to dinner. He died within a few minutes.

Spalding was a member of a family famous as manufacturers of sporting goods. His father, J. Walter Spalding, was a partner in the A. C. Spalding & Bros. Company.

He made his formal debut as a violinist in Paris in 1905 after being graduated from the Conservatory of Music in Paris.

At 14 he was the youngest student to graduate from the conservatory since Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Spalding made his farewell concert appearance in June, 1950, with the New York Philharmonic symphony in Lewisohn Stadium.

Fraser Called in on Cominco Pay Dispute

TRAIL (UP)—William Fraser, chief conciliation officer for British Columbia, was called in today to settle a dispute between workers of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (I.M.S.W.) and the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at Kimberley and Calgary.

The company board of directors rejected an agreement reached on the proposals of conciliation officer George Carmichael, and said it would agree only to renew the present agreement with no new concessions. The union's demands were not immediately revealed.

U.S. Plans to Let Private Industry Enter Atomic Field

WASHINGTON (BUP)—The United States government followed Canada's history-making lead today and proposed to let private industry in on the development of peacetime atomic power.

Long and careful study of the administration's proposal was expected in Congress, but it appeared likely that it eventually would pass legislation relaxing the government's tight monopoly on construction and operation of nuclear reactors.

(Canada's Defense Production Minister C. D. Howe informed House of Commons six weeks ago that Canadian private enterprise would be invited to share in the development of atomic power. All parties in the House cheered the announcement.)

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission started the legislative ball rolling Tuesday by submitting to the congressional atomic energy committee headed by W. Sterling (R. N.Y.) a proposed bill which would authorize private firms to build and operate atomic power plants, and even buy and sell atomic fuels (such as the fissionable elements uranium 235 and plutonium) under government licensing and supervision.

Cole said the committee would hold extensive hearings on the plan, beginning next month, and the bill probably will not be brought before Congress until next year.

Socred False Economy Charged by Snowsell

CCF candidate Frank Snowsell Tuesday night protested to a Saanich meeting that B.C.'s Social Credit administration had followed a false economy, and that its savings had been made at the expense of slashing essential services.

"A government which boasts of a surplus while hundreds of the citizens it is supposed to protect and represent are living on starvation allowances is a government to be ashamed of," he said.

Speaking with supporter Ed Haw at Marigold, Mr. Snowsell said that Socreds had cut $849,000 from social service and health estimates in their 1953 budget.

"The CCF," he said, "believes that Social Service is the working out of the Christian principle that the strong and fortunate should bear the burden of the weak and unfortunate. The true measure of success of a government is its success in looking after the welfare of all its people."

One of the first objectives of a CCF government, he continued, would be to bring social assistance allowances into line with the cost of living.

Mr. Snowsell thought it possible that a government auto insurance scheme could reduce rates by one half, and provide more extensive protection to persons injured in high-way accidents. He said it was the CCF's intention to introduce an insurance scheme designed "for the protection of people, not profit for private companies."

She turned tax Bill 45 "a most vicious thing."

"The tax on estates, real and otherwise, would apply to everybody—and not just commercially as some cabinet ministers have tried to imply," Mrs. Lindsay said.

She claimed that the taxing of people's valued possessions would be in the hands of one director and three members of an appeal board.

"Tax Everything" Charged SC Plan

A "tax on everything and everybody" if the Social Credit party returns to power was predicted by Mrs. Nora Lindsay, Saanich Progressive Conservative candidate, at a meeting Monday night.

She turned tax Bill 45 "a most vicious thing."

"The tax on estates, real and otherwise, would apply to everybody—and not just commercially as some cabinet ministers have tried to imply," Mrs. Lindsay said.

She claimed that the taxing of people's valued possessions would be in the hands of one director and three members of an appeal board.

Girl Killed by Auto

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Verna Taylor, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Taylor, Vancouver, was instantly killed Tuesday night when she ran from between parked cars into the path of an oncoming vehicle. Police said the driver of the car was Isomi Matsusaki, 49, Lulu Island. Police said no charges were immediately pending. The girl's death brought the Vancouver traffic death toll for 1953 to 14.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The following is a paid political pronouncement.

Ladies and gentlemen, fellow citizens, canaries, seagulls, dogs and (ugh) cats. I stand before you tonight with my four feet on the ground, my nose in the air, and my tongue hanging out, for a very special purpose.

I make no bones (yum) about it. I seek your support for the Punch for Premier Party.

I will admit I have a special interest in the P.P.P., on account of I am Punch. Unlike other candidates, I do not claim to be running (I like running) in this election for the good of the country.

I wish to be premier because there is such a lovely soft rug in the premier's office.

If you elect me premier, I promise I will not ruin the province in any way.

Punch

I will simply curl up on the nice lovely soft (aaahhh!) rug and let the province go ahead and prosper. No other candidate can make that statement.

But we must face up to the issues of the day. Take the Doukhobor problem, for instance. Take it as far away as you can.

There are many such issues of the day. To make sure you get your issue every day, telephone B3131 and a friendly newsboy will deliver your issue daily.

If elected, I promise to see that dogs never bite newsboys. Not evening paper newsboys, anyway.

However, getting back to the issues of the day, I have been asked where I stand on them.

I much prefer to sit, or better still, lie down, but I am not like most candidates, who haven't a leg to stand on.

For instance, I stand firmly in favor of a substantial increase in the Veterinarians' Allowance, and a revision of the Veterinarians' Land Act.

I refuse to pussy (ugh) foot around the issue. I state without fear or favor (chocolate, please) that the question is, Punch or Chaos.

I believe in complete freedom of choice, so if you choose Punch, you may have it spiked or unspiked, depending on which way you voted on the liquor plebiscite.

In conclusion, ladies and gentlemen, fellow citizens of this fair country, let me warn those who have climbed on the bandwagon.

They had better climb right off and get aboard the P.P.P. dog-cart.

On June 9, vote First Choice for Punch. I am going to win in a dog-trot.

The foregoing was a paid political pronouncement. Opinions expressed are not necessarily those of this newspaper. Indeed, they are not necessarily opinions.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The newest Victoria Social Credit group, No. 72, Zone 4, elected J. D. Johnson as its president at a meeting Tuesday night. Miss Mabel Fillmer was elected vice-president and K. C. Cronk, secretary-treasurer.

Optimist youth activities profited to the extent of $800 by a two-week door-to-door peanut selling campaign.

Treasurer, John H. Brown, Tuesday called the drive "best ever," said 20 canvassers had collected a total of $2,300. Campaign expenses and cost of the peanuts amounted to $1,500. The Optimists' best-known project is the Boys' Hobby Centre on Fairfield Road.

A call went out today for volunteers to use their cars for two or three hours a week driving out-patients in the care of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

Car owners who can help should contact Mrs. O. Jones at B 3622.

Well-known city teacher of elocution, Mrs. Wilfred Ord will entertain with her pupils at a recital in the Greater Victoria Arts Centre, Thursday at 8 p.m. The recital will take the form of a "speech demonstration" and "choral speaking."

Natural color photos of Victoria and Vancouver Island feature an article on B.C. in the June issue of Better Homes and Gardens, mass circulation magazine.

Written by Lee Edison, the article describes Vancouver Island and the mainland as far east as Kamloops, Penticton and the Okanagan Valley.

Photos of Express Hotel, the Causeway, Parliament Buildings and Campbell River Falls, all in natural color, were provided by Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, Commissioner George J. Warren reports.

HOLIDAY DRESS

City Primps For Queen's Coronation

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Victoria is beginning to don its Coronation robes.

Flags and bunting and royal shields decorate store windows, office building fronts and government institutions. Parliament Buildings, Empress Hotel, City Hall—all will be decked for holiday mood.

With less than a week before the giant Coronation Day parade to start at 9.30 a.m., June 2, Greater Victoria Celebrations Association at a meeting Tuesday night, continued to put finishing touches to the 1,000-and-one details.

While events are scheduled for Saturday night and Monday, the big show will be Tuesday.

BIG SERVICE CONTINGENT

An estimated 2,200 uniformed men will march in the feature parade of the day.

Overhead the RCAF and light aircraft, Lancasters and jets from east to west in the vicinity of a Pandora Avenue green saluting base.

In the absence of Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace, Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan, the province's official administrator, will take the salute.

Boy scouts and cubs of the district will set a torch to a mammoth bonfire on Clover Point at 9.30 p.m. June 2—simultaneously across Canada, similar fires will climb high into the sky, to mark the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY

People who gather for a big fireworks display to start at 10.15 in the park may take part in the scouts' Coronation sing-song after lighting of the bonfire.

Ceremonial dress and war medals will be worn by men of the armed services. Units participating will be:

RCN color guards and seven marching units, RCN band and VNTD band, HMCS Malahat, Sea Cadet Corps, 75th HAA band and marching unit, 5th B.C. Coast Regiment, 8 AAOR's and 75th cadets, 5th Area Signals, Canadian Scottish band and colors band, 40th Technical Squadron, RCME, RCAF and RCAF cadets, RCMP, University School Band.

MOTOR BIKE SHOW

Victoria Motorcycle Club, the oldest institution in Victoria with an unbroken record of participating in Victoria celebrations, according to Reg. Shank, club director, will be on hand again this year.

The club started participating in city celebrations in 1911. Mr. Shank said.

The club will precede the May Queen parade to the Buildings on Saturday night, with formation riding. Monday night at a F.O.E. pageant in Athletic Park, they will give an illuminated display. They will provide formation riding in advance of Tuesday's big parade and then give their own popular rodeo in Macdonald Park at 2.45 in the afternoon.

Judging of hands and marching units in Tuesday's parade will take place from the marquee of the Odeon Theatre. Seating for elderly persons and invalids will be arranged on the Pandora Green.

Over 500 Take Part In Folk Festival

Over 500 persons will take part in a Coronation Folk Festival at Victoria Curling Club next week where handicrafts, songs and dances of 18 national groups living in Victoria will be featured.

The festival is sponsored by Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, and will be opened Monday by J. Stuart Keate, publisher of The Victoria Daily Times.

The public will be admitted to the festival on Monday at 3 p.m., but the program will not start until 3.30 p.m. The evening program will start at 8 p.m., an hour after the doors are opened. On Tuesday doors are opened at 2 p.m.; program starts at 2.30 p.m. Thursday night, doors open at 7 and program starts at 8.

Early opening of the doors will enable visitors to view displays of handicrafts.

Major Murdoch, a city alderman, reported that University School, the Rainbow Sea Cadets and the BCMP also will take part in the ceremonies.

"I think that in many cases we have forgotten the true significance of the flag . . . and that is why we have arranged this program to follow the Coronation," Major Murdoch said.

They will be registering donors and collecting blood June 3 at Colwood Community Hall and June 4 and 5 at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street. Times are set for 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and 7 to 9.30 p.m. Phone Colwood Hall, or B3159 if in the city, for transportation.

"You might save a child too, they say."

Electors Here Vote In Fewer Stations

Central Locations Supplant Former Scattered Polls

Victorians will vote in the provincial election June 9 at 33 central locations instead of the 100 polling places provided last year.

Alan B. Macfarlane, returning officer, said today the change was made to give greater control over officials, and to increase efficiency.

In 1952, he said, each of the 100 polling divisions in the city had its own polling place. This year residents of several divisions will vote at one location.

"The polling places were carefully chosen, and no one should have to walk more than eight or 10 blocks to vote," Mr. Macfarlane said.

QUESTION MARK

"There will be a supervisor at each place to answer questions," he said. "With larger space available there should be fewer bottlenecks, and standard voting booths will be provided. There will be no more voting in closets or under stairs."

There has been no change in the voting setup, he said, since each resident will vote in his own division.

Within a week each voter will receive a card through the mail telling him where to vote, and in what division.

"We want the people to keep the cards, and take them to the voting place with them," Mr. Macfarlane said. "If they hand the cards in to officials there it will save a considerable amount of time, speed up voting, and make our job 100 per cent easier."

STATIONS LISTED

Voting will be at the following locations:

No Bail for Ex-Constable, Prison-Bound

Clarence Arthur Billett, former Victoria policeman, was sentenced to two months in prison by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

Billett, found guilty last week in the same court for threatening his father-in-law, Allan W. Collier, received the prison term when he appeared in police court to report that he had been unable to secure the $500 in bail bonds to ensure his good behavior for the next six months.

Asked by Magistrate Hall if he wished more time to arrange for the bond, the heavy set Billett said: "It wouldn't be of any use."

He was remanded to May 29 on a charge of driving a car while his license was under suspension.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Was Julius Caesar the first Roman emperor? If not, who was?

A. Julius Caesar was never an emperor. His nephew, Gaius Octavian, named by Caesar as his heir, became the first to appropriate the title of emperor after defeating in battle his chief rivals, Antony, Brutus and Cassius. Octavian later called himself Augustus. He died in 14 A.D.

Q. What are the facts of the sinking of the excursion steamer Princess Alice?

A. Sunk in a collision in the River Thames September 3, 1878, with a loss of 700 lives.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

City Dons Its Gala Garb

At Parliament Buildings an imperial crown surrounded by bright bunting, dominates the facade as workmen deck the government seat for Coronation Day. Elsewhere, throughout the downtown area, business and commercial houses are putting on their holiday dress in honor of the sovereign.

At Eaton's a gigantic sign gives loyal greetings to Queen Elizabeth II.

NATIVE SONS SEEK NOMINATIONS FOR GOOD CITIZEN AWARD

Victoria Post No. 1, Native Sons of B.C., is calling for nominations for its annual "Good Citizen's Award." Residents are invited to send letters nominating any person in Greater Victoria who they believe has upheld the best principles of citizenship here.

June 15 is closing date for the receipt of nominations. Nominations will be submitted to a special committee that will select the person to be presented with the award for 1953. The presentation will take place at Beacon Hill Park Sunday, June 21, during celebration of "I am a Canadian" Day.

Nominations, to be sent to R. H. Hisecks, 609 Trutch Street, Victoria, must state why the person named should get the award.

Rare Type Blood Transfusion Saves New-Born Baby's Life

By PETE LOUDON

Another tiny life was saved at the Jubilee Hospital one night recently . . . saved by a book entry made several months ago by the Red Cross.

Hospital authorities revealed the story today. The life was that of a two-hour-old baby that was driven here in a speeding car from Port Alberni . . . speeding because every second that passed lessened the chance of survival.

The infant is one of those uncommon accidents of nature, an "Rh. baby" doomed because blood factors in the parents are incompatible.

The child's only hope was a complete change of blood, and it had to be fresh blood from an Rh. negative donor, one of the rarest types.

Jubilee Hospital contacted the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic as soon as the facts were known. Could the clinic furnish a donor immediately? It was midnight . . . people are slow to react at midnight.

But the Red Cross workers went into action. Checking records they pinpointed an Rh. negative donor, a citizen who had registered, gives blood every six months for the blood bank.

Roused from bed the donor was rushed to the hospital and the process began. Imagine a sink with a tap running and the stopper out.

The water undergoes a complete change while its level remains steady. That is what happened to the newborn baby's blood supply.

Today the child is in good condition, will soon be returned to its parents to begin a normal life.

If there hadn't been an Rh. negative donor registered, if there hadn't been a record kept of the blood type, the address, the phone number . . . well, the Red Cross workers don't dwell on failure.

They will be registering donors and collecting blood June 3 at Colwood Community Hall and June 4 and 5 at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street. Times are set for 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and 7 to 9.30 p.m. Phone Colwood Hall, or B3159 if in the city, for transportation.

"You might save a child too, they say."

City Drivers Ignore Parking Lots' Spaces

The motoring public here is ignoring parking lots.

That was the view of commissioners William Hamilton and Gordon Carter of the city police board at a meeting today.

"The old practice of people rushing out to feed nickels to parking meters is still being carried on. Parking lots are not being used," said Commissioner Carter.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Fast Colors—and I Mean Just That—in Newest Fabric

By PENNY SAVER

Wheeee! It won't fade! Colors are "absolutely" and "positively" guaranteed to stay fast! ... It's sensational! ... It's true, folks, a well-known chemical company has discovered a new method of dyeing marquisette so that it won't fade. Clerks report that sales on white marquisette have dropped 50 per cent since the color-fast fabric has been on the market. You, too, can have frothy bedroom curtains in refreshing colors that stay new-looking, in champagne, pink, blue, green and gold.

Panel prices are at $1.66, 42 inches wide, 54 inches long; $1.77, 42 inches by 63 inches; $1.88, 42 inches by 72 inches. Ruffles, 50 inches by 81 inches are $5.88 pair. Side hemmed yardage is 73 cents a yard, 43 inches wide.

Here's a collector's item for doll lovers! (Especially if they're little girls). Directions for collecting costumes for the standard size collector's doll are found in two booklets. One is entitled "Dolls of the Nations," and the other is "Dolls of the Americas." From the former you can make Italian, Chinese, Irish, Scottish, Swedish, Spanish or Dutch costumes, to mention but a few. The Americas booklet gives patterns for Gypsy, Cowgirl, West Indian, Mexican and Southern Belle designs. Booklets are 15 cents each and dolls can be obtained for 59 cents.

Ever seen an egg plate? ... Either they're very new or I'm hopelessly slow, because I've never seen one before! ... It is made of attractively pressed American glass with a good-sized space in the centre for salad. The eggs (preferably devilled), fit into hollowed cups in the plate which form a circle around the salad. ... Get the idea? It makes a dandy luncheon centerpiece!

Bedside lamps for kiddies will dispel their fears of the dark, for when they switch on, a laughing elephant or kangaroo will look down upon them. Both animals in pink or yellow plastic have tails for switches and cost $3.98.

AS WE LIVE

Wife, Married at 16, Is Bored, Wants Divorce

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a woman marries very young, she quickly discovers that marriage is not the romantic bed of roses she had believed it to be. Then she is likely to become bored and this leads to resentment of her husband. How a husband should react in such a situation is the question asked by this man:

(Q) "I married my wife nine years ago when she was 16 and we now have two children. Our marriage was happy until recently when my wife began to act cold and unloving. This past week she told me she doesn't love me any more and wants a divorce. I want to see my pastor and he wants to talk to both of us but she refuses to go. My wife agreed to stay in our house for the sake of our children. I think a lot of this trouble started when she began working a year ago. There were so many things she wanted that we couldn't afford. I worked days and she worked afternoons and evenings so one of us would be with the children. Of course we didn't see much of each other. She won't quit working because she likes the work and the money. What shall I do?"

(A) Don't give up hope of a change in your wife's attitude toward you. Let things ride as they are for the present and don't press her to come to a decision. If you do she is almost certain to decide against you.

If she is ashamed to talk to her minister or fears that he will interfere in your affairs, perhaps she would be willing to go to a marriage counselor who is a complete stranger to her. She might find it easier to talk to a stranger. I am sure your minister could make arrangements for her to consult a marriage counselor.

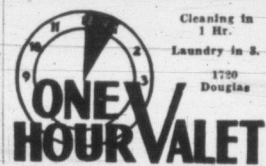

She obviously does not want to give up her children and her home. Knowing that she would have to take up residence elsewhere and make provision for the care of the children while she worked would have a very sobering effect on her. Let her find this out and then decide which means more, her children and home or the job.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SPRINGTIME SOUFFLE SALADS

One package lime-flavored gelatin, 1 cup hot water, 1/2 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons diced pimiento, 2 tablespoons diced green sweet pepper, 2 cups canned cling peach slices, salad greens.

Noakes-Rawlick Wedding

Standard baskets of tulips, iris and lilac flanked the altar of Metropolitan United Church.

Saturday evening, when Rose, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Rawlick of Edmonton, Alta., became the bride of Hugh Arthur Noakes, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Noakes, 627 Falkland Avenue, Rev. H. E. F. James officiated.

Given in marriage by Hugh Francis, the bride wore a ballerina gown of white slipper satin, styled in classic princess lines. Her chapel-length veil frothed from a pearl-encrusted tiara headpiece, and her prayer book was topped with a white orchid-and-lily-of-the-valley.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Irene Henly, matron of honor, who wore a ballerina gown of iridescent mauve taffeta with lace-trimmed jacket. A two-toned mauve braided bandeau was worn in her hair.

Ronald Noakes, brother of the groom, was best man, and us-er was Ernie Anastasiou.

After the ceremony, guests were received at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gerrard, 1537 Gladstone Avenue, by Mrs. W. Waters and mother of the groom, Mrs. A. O. Noakes. The lace-covered bridal table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake. Baskets of spring flowers decorated the rooms.

Toast to the bride was proposed by W. James Bath.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. D. W. Creighton and daughter Daphne, West Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Noakes, Kamloops; Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Pack and daughter Linda, Portland; and Miss Rosemary Noakes, Vancouver.

For traveling, Mrs. Noakes chose a tailored cinnamon worsted suit with white straw hat, coronation mauve top coat, cinnamon accessories and white orchid corsage.

City Girl Married At Quesnel, B.C.

An heirloom silver necklace worn by the groom's grandmother on her wedding day was "something old" for Laura Lilian Cummings, daughter of Mrs. Naida Cummings, 580 Simcoe Street, when she exchanged vows with John Smith Calhoun Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Oliver Cameron Frost, Squamish, B.C., in a recent ceremony at Bethel Mission, Quesnel, B.C. Rev. T. J. Davies officiated.

Entering the church on the arm of her uncle, Fred Puff, the bride wore a gown of white satin, en train, with lily point sleeves and net yoke. Her fingertip veil cascaded from a gem-studded headpiece, and she carried a bouquet of Talsman roses. Attendants Miss Joy Leake and Miss Patricia Dean wore nylon gowns of mauve and green, respectively, and carried shaded pink carnations. John Atchison, Dawson Creek, was best man and Tom Cheavins and J. W. Beat were ushers.

For a honeymoon on Vancouver Island, Mrs. Frost donned a soft grey suit with navy accessories and a rhinestone necklace, gift of the groom.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Vitamin C and Calcium Shortage in Many Diets

Doctor Esther Philard of the United States Department of Agriculture recently warned that the two most usual deficiencies in the family diet are vitamin C and calcium.

On first thought it is difficult to see why this should be since the foods which supply these are readily available. In the case of calcium it is probably due to the fact that many adults think of milk as a necessity for children only. This is far from true. As a matter of fact, calcium is showing up as an extremely important factor in delaying the aging process from middle age on. Milk and dairy products are the richest and most reliable sources of calcium. Vitamin C is widely distributed in foods but usually in very small amounts. The citrus fruits are the number one rich source. On these you can rely. Tomatoes and cabbage are also high in vitamin C but tomato juice has only half the amount which orange juice has.

Many people take a small glass of orange juice at breakfast and let it go at that. Also many people suffer from the misconception that any juice will give you vitamin C. This is not true. Pineapple juice and apple juice and grape juice, while delightful and healthful, do not bring you the vitamin C which the citrus fruits do.

In order to take care of calcium and vitamin C needs you should have, at least two glasses of milk a day. If overweight, you, drink skimmed milk or buttermilk. This plus a well-balanced diet will assure you an adequate calcium consumption.

For vitamin C, drink a large glass of orange juice daily and eat a well-balanced diet with plenty of tomatoes and cole slaw.

More and more it begins to appear that fine nutrition is a fountain of youth as exciting as the one Ponce de Leon dreamed of long ago.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Vitamin Defense," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 37 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Gagliardi Upped Load Limit To Aid Friend, Tory Claim

Load limits on Fraser River canyon bridges were doubled recently without regard to public safety, it was charged Tuesday night by Victoria Conservative candidate Monty Drake.

He told an audience of seven at South Park School here that the increase from a 20,000-pound load limit for vehicles to 40,000 pounds was ordered by Minister of Public Works P. A. Gagliardi to oblige a "friend."

He added that the action was taken without consulting department engineers.

Beyond stating that the source of his information was within the public works department and "entirely dependable," Mr. Drake would divulge nothing more.

On the same platform were Mr. Drake's running mates, Art Chapman and Bob Patch.

Mr. Chapman, a noted city athlete, hit at cuts in Pro-Rec appropriations. He said that during the Second World War three out of nine applicants for active service were found physically unfit. He thought the situation today is aggravated by the widespread 40-hour week.

TO RESTORE PRO-REC

He promised he would do all in his power, if elected, to restore and expand the Pro-Rec family recreation.

Bob Patch directed his remarks to the B.C. export trade, "the valve by which the flow of B.C. prosperity is controlled."

"High competitive prices can be blamed neither on labor nor management but on their failure to seek a common meeting ground," he said. He pledged the assistance of his party to the problem.

He promised that the first act of a Conservative government would be to approach the federal government and the United Kingdom for improvements in sterling exchange. He added, "We will also approach the department of trade and industry."

LARGEST IN WORLD

TORONTO (CP)—Canada has been the largest importer of capital goods in the world in recent years, the monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia said today. During 1951, Canada imported more than $1,000,000,000 worth of machinery and transport equipment and $815,000,000 worth of consumer goods.

PEARKES PREDICTS

No Clear Majority For Any B.C. Party

Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P. for Nanaimo, free from sessional duties in Ottawa, broke into the provincial election campaign Tuesday night, and declared that from what he could see of the muddled picture, no one party was going to be strong enough to form a government after June 9.

"It is doubtful whether any one party can possibly get a majority," the general told an audience of 26 at a Progressive Conservative meeting at Cordova Bay Community Hall.

"Although we may not form a government, I think we stand a very good chance of electing enough members to hold control over whatever party has the most members."

"TWO TRAGEDIES"

The general reviewed the course of the party from the time it entered Coalition "as a patriotic gesture." After the breakup of Coalition, he said, the organization suffered "two terrible tragedies." The first, he cited, was that the party found itself with only four members elected to the House, and the second was that four, two died before the session ended.

"I don't think any party could have been at a lower ebb than ours at the time of the last convention," the general acknowledged.

"But, at least, we didn't have to go to the Federal House at Ottawa to find someone to pull us out. We picked our own young man as a leader."

"The resilience of our party is now almost unbelievable," he proclaimed.

Gen. Pearkes spoke on behalf of Saanich P.C. candidate Mrs. Nora Lindsay. He declined an invitation by meeting chairman Col. G. Rickard to tell of recent happenings in Ottawa because, he said, he felt federal matters should not be introduced into a provincial campaign.

The general spoke following Mrs. Lindsay, who outlined the party's election program.

LEARNS PLATFORM

"I've got to make a terrible confession, Gen. Pearkes opened his remarks. 'This is the first time I've heard the Conservative party's provincial platform. I was intensely interested in it and very impressed with it. It has a lot of sound suggestions in it.'"

During a question period, Mrs. Lindsay was thrown many questions concerning the party's intention to provide half-a-pint of milk to all B.C. school children desiring it. One questioner offered the comment: "Coming from a province where milk is so plentiful, this matter of free milk seems very strange to me."

A man who asked how much it would cost was informed by Mrs. Lindsay that if 80 per cent of the school children took advantage of the free milk, the bill for 1953 would be $1,400,000.

Army, Navy 16-Year-Olds To Get Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Apparently for the first time since Confederation, hundreds of 16-year-old Canadians will be legally eligible to vote in the forthcoming general election.

They are the young apprentices serving with the army and navy. There now are roughly 200 of them with the army and 60 with the navy; and a whole new class that will number in the hundreds will enter the army—and become eligible to vote—August 3.

All members of the regular forces on active service are entitled to vote, regardless of age.

The apprentices, boys brought in a year early to get trades training, are as much members of the regular forces on active service as any of the other 104,000 men and women in uniform.

Debt Claim Action Dismissed by Judge

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane has dismissed an action initiated by Lillian Overton and Alice Dobson, who claimed W. H. Okell was owing them money for services rendered at the side of Langford Lake Store.

The action stemmed from ambiguous wording of a clause in the agreement for sale. The matter was tried in Supreme Court here earlier this month.

Gunderson Defends Dismissal Of Provincial Civil Servants

The Social Credit government was not responsible for the dismissal of the House, an audience of about 20 at the Cadboro Bay Scout Hall was told Tuesday night by Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

Mr. Gunderson said that all parties of the opposition accused the Socialists of dissolving the House while actually it was the Rolston Formula and the opposition that was responsible.

There were parts of the bill that the opposition disliked, he said, and instead of amending the points in committee, they turned it down. The Rolston Formula never reached committee, where, Mr. Gunderson said, he felt the disputed points could have easily been dealt with.

"How could Social Credit, with a minority, dissolve the House?" he asked. "It must have been the opposition."

Another highly criticized move the Social Credit government made, that of dismissing certain civil servants, "received comment from the finance minister. The government carried an extensive search to find out where some civil servants could be let out without disrupting efficiency. Mr. Gunderson explained that in one department alone, changes could be made with a saving of $30,000 yearly, and those changes would in no way interfere with efficiency."

Hitting reports that Socialists were divided, Mr. Gunderson said that never have they been so united behind one leader than at the present time. Many of the other parties are divided, he added, therefore they try to give the impression that it is the Social Credit Party that is split.

When questioned on how the Socialists reduced the provincial debt, Mr. Gunderson said that there were many small items that entered the picture and were investigated fully, being cut down wherever possible.

Titian, considered the greatest of the Venetian painters, kept a cluster of grapes hanging in his studio as an example of beauty of form and line.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Over Class) BB (Worthwhile) CC (For Rainy Days) DD (To put in time)

(A) "THE HOUSE OF WAX" (Capitol) — After seeing this first three-dimensional film by a major studio (Warner) I have no fear in repeating that 3-D is here to stay.

To point up its tricks and in an effort to make the audience feel as if its taking part in the experiment the studio obviously chose a horror picture to produce its 3-D magic.

If "House of Wax" had been produced in the ordinary "flat" manner, I doubt if this story of a madman who murders and then turns the bodies of his victims into wax statues for his museum would have been able to keep the audience from walking out in the middle of the play.

But three-D makes the whole thing interesting and immensely absorbing.

It was fun as balls came shooting out of the screen at you. It was fun to duck during a fight when the antagonists hurled objects at one another. But it was far more awe-inspiring to me to see the chandeliers on the set appear to be hanging in the theatre, to watch the shadows of running figures play upon the walls. Three-D often makes a motion picture seem like a stage play.

Which is wonderful.

But let's grow up Hollywood. That's enough of the tricks. How about giving us a bona fide "good" picture, one that absorbs the audience through the measure of excellent plot, characterization, dialogue and scenery. We'll be content.

And when you can, get rid of the glasses.

After these things have been done you'll have us contented for a long, long time.

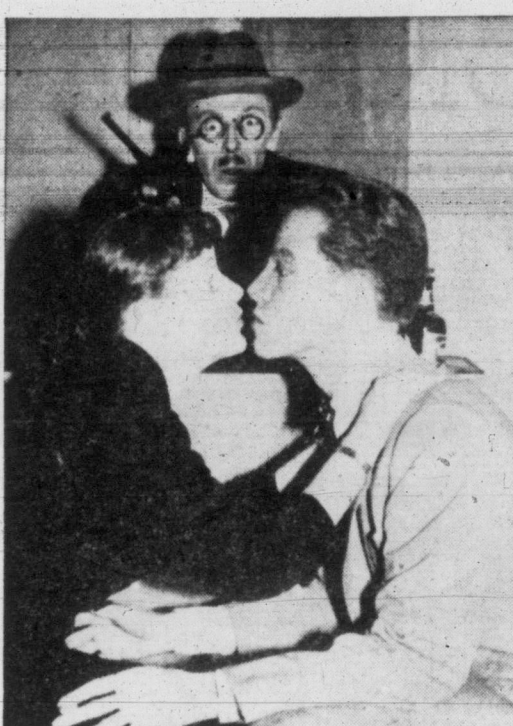

Stars of "The House of Wax" are Vincent Price, Roy Roberts, Phyllis Kirk, Paul Picerni and Frank Lovejoy.

Considering the type of play it is I thought they did an excellent piece of work.

Surprise for Nina?

"Who Is About to Surprise Whom?" might be the title of this picture from the current show at the York Theatre, the French farce "Nina." Playing all this week, it's a spicy comedy with Lorraine Foreman, left, as "Nina" and Jerry Stovin as her lover, while shocked husband about to draw a bead on someone is director Ian Dobbie. All three are well-known professionals. Mr. Dobbie, director of the mainland city's Totem Theatre, is well known in Victoria, having adjudicated the Vancouver Island Drama Festival two years ago.

MONEY'S SAFE

Chinese Asks Protection From Police

More concerned about his cash assets than the fact his life had been threatened by a fellow-countryman, a worried 61-year-old Chinese came to the city police station early Tuesday and gave police all the money he had for safe-keeping.

He handed over $120 in $5 and $10 bills to Sgt. Thomas Stevenson and Constable John Perry "to hold for me until I finish work tonight."

The Chinese, near tears, was so agitated that his explanation was vague. But police gathered he was worried because another Chinese had threatened to kill him.

He was afraid to go from the police station to the bus to go to work. He was escorted by Const. Perry.

Latest word is he's still safe and so is his money.

Margaret Dunn to Sing in Cathedral Recital on Sunday

Firemen to Follow Police Cap Style

City firemen were given the green light on a new style hat Tuesday—provided it doesn't cost the city more money.

Council's finance committee was agreeable to a proposal for a new style—similar to a policeman's hat—as new supplies are needed.

It was stated difference in price was "negligible." Both the union and fire chief agree on the new style.

CARPET CLERKS ON SKATES

Twenty-one pair of roller skates were rented for the use of salesmen in an unprecedented New York Carpet Promotion held in Madison Square Garden recently. "I hope these fellas don't break their necks around here." A moment later, one tall salesman went flat on his fanny. The SHOW WAS ON.

That's right Sue!...

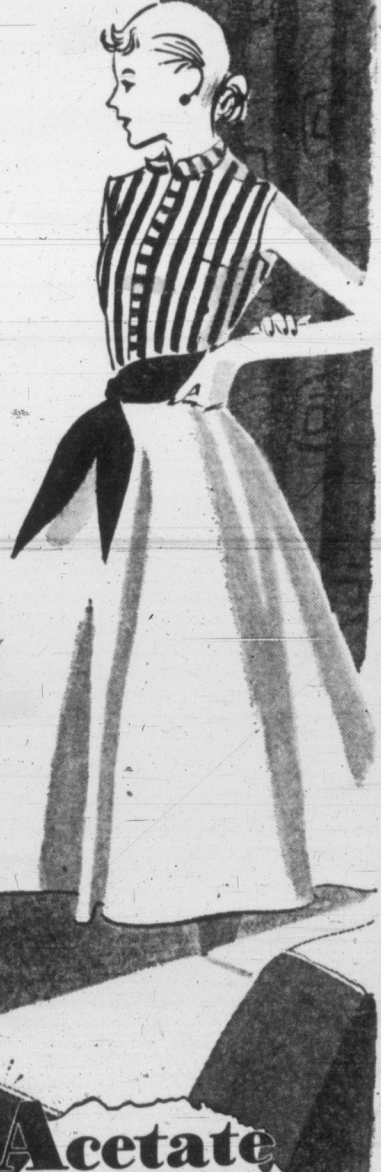

YOU CAN THANK B.C. FORESTS FOR THESE BREATHTAKING FABRICS FOR YOU AND YOUR HOME

They all started right here in our B.C. Forests... in the great stands of spruce and hemlock entrusted to Columbia Cellulose at Prince Rupert. Pulp produced here will soon be sent direct to our new Edmonton plant for the production of these wonderful acetate yarns in Western Canada.

Soon these yarns will be rolling to Canadian fabric mills... and Columbia Cellulose will become an important factor in supplying the textile market in this country.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1953
Aries (March 21 to April 19)
A variety of ideas are racing around in your mind today. Sit down and decide which are important from a long range view. Try to discriminate between the good and bad.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)
Investments and financial affairs, both joint and personal, come to the fore today. With economical procedures you can increase your security. Make appraisal of current expenses.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)
Today's influences bring excellent chance to improve relationships with co-workers, opponents who express their feelings toward you openly today. Show co-operation.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)
Intense energy today gives you the ability to finish your tasks quickly. You will want the time thus freed to work on other interests later on.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Have get-together with attachments and friends; show gratitude for their support by entertaining them. A good time is ahead.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
You, problems are right out in the open today. Now you can decide what must be done to better your present situation.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
Time for you to take a breather from your limited activities. Make new contacts with interesting individuals. Get out into world of imaginative ideas, inspiration.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Matters involving taxes, "hara" small bills and old obligations requiring immediate attention demand immediate attention. Improve property, material possessions.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Don't let eager-beaver get under your skin. Keep on at your regular pace, unperturbed, and all passes off easily.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
There is a likelihood of mishaps today caused by too much haste in completing irksome duties. Just remember the platitudes which are so true, "Haste makes waste."

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
A good day to act on that urge to improve your appearance in all ways. Have your trip to the beauty shop, then get out and have fun.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)
Take special precautions against accidents. Don't let yourself get into arguments with those who oppose you. Be impersonal and all works out fine.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...
Today's child was born with an intense desire for knowledge and information. In his or her restless pursuit of more and more knowledge there is danger of dissipating vital forces unless the child is taught to concentrate upon one subject at a time and to know it well before taking up something new. Intellectual vocations such as writing and lecturing are best suited to this mentality.

Park Dispute Flares Anew

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Hollywood Park scoffed today at horsemen's charges it had not consulted the state horse racing board before doubling the value of two $50,000 stakes races for the current meeting.

Track general manager James Stewart said Tuesday that board members Fred Pabst and Jack Sattler had been consulted about the matter during negotiations on the recent boycott at the track.

Stewart countered a charge by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association that the track was "arrogant," in boosting the stakes races, by calling it "silly" and "ridiculous."

The HBPA sounded off against the track when it increased to a hundred grand the Westerner and the Sunset handicap.

Breezy Bike

When Josef Redenboeck blows in from Munich, Germany, he does it in a big way. The enterprising mechanic motorized himself instead of the bike by strapping an engine and propeller to his back. The prop creates enough wind to push Joe and his bike along at a nice clip.

Hampshire Leads in County Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—Hampshire defeated Kent by 47 runs at Southampton Tuesday to take a clear lead in the English county cricket championship table.

Hampshire now has 40 points from six games. Middlesex moved into second place with 38 points from five games after defeating Sussex by 101 runs at London.

At Manchester, Lancashire and Yorkshire, joint favorites for the championship, battled to a draw. Key man in the Lancashire team was Cyril Washbrook. Struck on the jaw by the ball, he left the field to have two stitches inserted but returned to score 65 not out.

Brian Wells, 22, an Army conscript, took eight Somerset wickets for 31 runs, helping Gloucestershire's comfortable 191-run victory at Taunton.

Final scores:
Warwickshire 339 for nine declared and 134 for eight declared. Derbyshire 197 and 78. Warwickshire won by 269 runs.
Gloucestershire 275 and 242 for four declared. Somerset 189 and 127. Gloucestershire won by 191 runs.

PLAY PRODUCER APPLAUDS

Bill Buckingham, well known C.B.C. performer-producer of "Theatre Under the Stars" at Stanley Park, Vancouver, is used to winning high plaudits for his work.

Speaking of praise, Bill says "I'd like to share the stage with an old friend of mine—Canada Dry. Theatrical work can be pretty demanding, and a few minutes' respite is always a pleasure, especially when there's a cool bottle of Canada Dry in the scene. I can always count on its delightful flavor to renew my enthusiasm."

Aureole Now Derby Choice

LONDON (AP)—Nearula, betting favorite for the Epsom Derby until he went lame again, is doing well under treatment and may still run in the June 6 classic, trainer Charles Elsey said today.

Elsey announced Monday that the Two Thousand Guineas winner was lame for the second time in a week. He said the colt was a doubtful Derby starter.

Bookmakers stand to win more than £250,000 if Nearula is scratched.

The colt was 2 to 1 Derby favorite after his Guineas win and was still favorite at 7 to 2 after his first lameness. Today one London bookie was offering 10 to 1 against him.

The new favorite is the Queen's Aufgole, down to 3 to 1 in some handbooks.

Salvation Army Short of Quota

With only one day remaining in the Salvation Army Red Shield campaign the $30,000 drive is still far short of the quota.

Not quite 61 per cent, $18,220, has been collected. Fund officials state that although some canvassers are yet to be heard from, the drive needs an "extra push."

Persons who have not been canvassed should mail donations to the Salvation Army, 745 Pandora, they advise.

RCMP Makes B.C. Staff Changes

Movements of high RCMP promoted to superintendent in 1951. Officials to and from British Columbia were included Tuesday in news from Ottawa headquarters of three assistant commissioners and five other officers.

Superintendent J. M. Bella, administration officer for the B.C. headquarters of the Mounties, will be transferred to Saskatchewan.

Inspector G. R. Engel, personnel officer, will be administrative officer in Victoria.

Inspector J. R. W. Bordeleau will take over from Assistant Commissioner C. W. Harvison as chief of the force's CIB in British Columbia.

Supt. Harvison is still awaiting news of his new posting following promotion late last week to the rank of assistant commissioner.

Inspector W. J. Butler, from Ontario, will take over the position of Insp. Bordeleau as second in command of CIB for this province.

Sub-Inspector T. T. Parsons will come from Saskatchewan to handle the job here as personnel officer.

Supt. Bella, 45, was born in Kenora, Ont. He has served with the RCMP for 23 years, was commissioned in 1942 and

Ottawa Reminds Income Taxpayers Of Deduction Cut

OTTAWA (CP)—The revenue department today gave Canadians an official reminder that lower income tax deductions start July 1.

The department issued a whole new table of tax deductions at source applicable to salaries or wages received on or after July 1.

The effect is to slash approximately 11 per cent off the present deductions in keeping with Finance Minister Abbott's budget of February 19. Employers are getting 180,000 copies of the new tables through the mails.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Aide Denies Assault Story

TOKYO (AP)—Reports that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt had been pulled from her car by a group of demonstrating Japanese women, published Monday by the newspaper Yomiuri, were denied Tuesday by Maureen Cobb, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary. Oil Mogul's Son Dies In California Crash

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (AP)—College student Gary G. McMahon, 24, of Calgary was killed today as his automobile crashed into a supporting pillar of the south San Francisco overpass on Bayshore highway. His father, Frank M. McMahon, is president of Pacific Petroleum Ltd., one of the biggest operators in the oil and gas hunt in northeastern British Columbia.

Liberals Hold Nova Scotia; Majority of 6

All Three Party Leaders Returned

By The Canadian Press
Following is the Canadian Press list of party gains in Nova Scotia:

Progressive Conservative, 8 from Liberals—Cumberland Centre, Cumberland East, Kings 2, Lunenburg 2, Queens, Yarmouth.

Liberals 3: From Progressive Conservatives—Clare, Cumberland West, Digby.

HALIFAX—The Liberals were returned to power in Nova Scotia's general election Tuesday, but Progressive Conservative gains cut their majority in the legislature to six seats, the slimmest since the party started its reign in 1933.

The results, compared to the 1949 election:

	1953	1949
Liberals	22	28
PC's	13	7
CCF	2	2
Total	37	37

Following the 1949 election the Progressive Conservatives gained a seat from the Liberals in a by-election made necessary when the voting in one riding was declared void.

All three party leaders—Angus L. Macdonald of the Liberals; Robert L. (Bob) Stanfield, 39, of the Progressive Conservatives, and Michael McDonald, 43, of the CCF—were re-elected Tuesday.

The popular-vote tabulation showed the Liberals with 49.7 per cent of the total. The Progressive Conservatives had 42.9 per cent.

In 1949, the Liberals won with 51 per cent of the vote. The Progressive Conservatives had 39 per cent.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbia Liberals expressed hope today that the party's success in the Nova Scotia general election would extend to the shores of the Pacific when this province elects a new administration June 3.

Provincial Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said the results were "an example of the continuing confidence of the Canadian people in Liberalism."

He added that Premier Angus Macdonald "has always conducted a responsible government and his administration has kept close to the people of Nova Scotia."

"We hope the west coast, on June 3, will follow the lead of the shores swept by the Atlantic and return a responsible Liberal administration to this province," he said.

Provincial Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson hailed the additional five seats for his party in the Maritime province.

He said "the Conservative stride in Nova Scotia again accentuates the steady swing of the people to our party."

"To practically double the representation there is concrete evidence the people are gradually throwing off the bondage of Liberal machine politics."

Two Die in RCAF Training Plane Crash

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (BUP)—A Royal Canadian Air Force Harvard training plane has crashed six miles southeast of the Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, RCAF station—killing its two occupants. Air Force officials say the victims were RCAF student pilots. Their names are being withheld, pending notification of next-of-kin.

THE ALTERNATIVE VOTE

Marking of Ballots Simplicity Itself

In the June 9 election B.C. for the second time will use the alternative, or transferable voting system. It is still a new thing to many voters. In response to requests from many of the subscribers the Times is carrying a series of articles daily this week explaining various features of alternative voting as a public service. They are written by Leslie Fox, managing editor, who spent 18 years as a reporter covering provincial affairs. This is article 3.

By LESLIE FOX

The actual marking of ballots under the alternative voting system is simplicity itself.

The usual form of ballot is provided. It lists the names of candidates. Opposite each is a blank square.

In the single vote method all you did was mark a cross against the name of the man you wanted and toss your ballot into the box. You left the other squares blank.

Under the alternative system you mark the figure one opposite the man you want most elected.

Then you mark two, three and four opposite the others in order of preference and toss your ballot into the box.

Reid Takes Daughter Out Of School

Salmon Arm MLA's Child 'Persecuted'

SALMON ARM, B.C. (CP)—J. Allan Reid, Social Credit member for Salmon Arm, has taken his daughter out of high school because she has been persecuted by other students.

"It was Mr. Reid who made the now famous 'sex in schools' attack on the B.C. educational system during the last session of the legislature."

Reid confirmed the removal of his daughter from school, but declined to comment.

First word came from school trustee Ed Codd, who has supported Reid in wanting the controversial Effective Living course removed from school curriculum. He spoke at a meeting of the school trustees.

"BOTH WAYS" During the meeting school board chairman J. L. Jackson told Codd he had used the situation for political purposes.

"I can go both ways," replied Codd, accusing students in the school of persecuting Reid's daughter as a result of which Reid had to take her out of the school.

Codd promised chairman Jackson he would no longer discuss the subject.

Reid's daughter, almost 15, has not been at school for some months.

Homeniuk Sent Up for Trial

DUNCAN—Frank Homeniuk, 37, Crofton boom-man, was committed for trial today by Magistrate A. C. Sutton following preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering Eric A. Lindstrom, 45, woods faller and father of seven children. Lindstrom died in hospital following an affray on Station Street here shortly after midnight May 10. (See earlier story, page 3.)

EVASIVE AS EELS, SAYS LAING

Sacred Philosophy Branded 'Voodooism'

By GORDON FORBES
Times Political Reporter

Port Alberni—Premier Bennett and his top cabinet ministers are "evasive as eels" in answering questions about their views on Social Credit monetary reform principles, Liberal Leader Arthur Laing said here Tuesday night.

Mr. Laing, addressing a packed meeting in Legion Hall, ridiculed the provincial Sacred Leaders' contention that monetary theories are not an issue in the provincial election campaign.

"I say this is one of the most important issues in the campaign."

"Social Credit monetary reform theories present a threat that dwarfs any threat Socialism ever made," stated the Liberal chief.

NEWS OF EVEREST CLIMB MAY ARRIVE SATURDAY

KAMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—Anxious eyes scanned the narrow trail leading to Katmandu from Mt. Everest today, watching for native runners who will bring word of the success or failure of the British expedition attempting to conquer the world's highest peak.

Mountain experts said that if the men of the British climbing team failed to reach the summit of Everest last week-end, they probably now are digging in to await another spell of good weather.

Weather forecasters said that a least one fierce snowstorm was expected to assault the 29,002-foot peak today.

Atmospherics cut off all news from the expedition's radio transmitter, so nobody knows whether they made it. If they did, the news is on its way down the icy slopes with runners, who cannot arrive before next Saturday.

HUGE LAND, SEA HUNT FOR BOMBER

Fate of Comox-Based Lancaster Plane Still Unknown; Crew Members Identified

Compiled from CP, BUP Dispatches
VANCOUVER—A land, sea and air search was launched today for a Vancouver Island-based Lancaster bomber lost Tuesday over the Oregon coast.

The four-engined bomber vanished off Newport, Ore., on a flight from Vancouver Island to San Diego with other RCAF bombers escorting the newly equipped destroyer escort HMCS Algonquin which is en route to its Halifax base via the Panama Canal.

A clue to the fate of the missing aircraft was a search plane's report of spotting an orange-colored box floating in the ocean 24 miles south of the plane's last reported position. RCAF planes carry orange-painted emergency gear.

The Coast Guard cutter USS Balsam was dispatched from Coos Bay, Ore., to look for the reported debris.

Search headquarters were investigating scattered reports of crashes both in Oregon and California.

Search swung to the coastal Port Orford area of the state late Tuesday after citizens told of hearing a low-flying plane and the still more ominous report concerning the possible crash.

George Montgomery of Salmon Mountain, 17 miles east of Port Orford, told of a multi-engine plane apparently crashing after striking the tree.

This happened, he said, between 2 and 3 a.m. Tuesday. The missing Lancaster was last heard from at 2:22 a.m., several hours after leaving its Comox base on Vancouver Island.

At Myrtle Point, 30 miles northeast of Port Orford, there were a number of reports of a low-flying plane and the United States Coast Guard was attempting to plot its route from telephone reports of those who heard it.

A thunderstorm had cracked along the Oregon coast shortly before the Lancaster disappeared and continued unsettled weather made conditions unfavorable for searching.

Senator Sees UN Futile In Dealing With Truce

CINCINNATI (AP)—In a surprise major foreign policy speech, Senator Robert Taft said Tuesday night the United States "might as well forget the United Nations as far as the Korean war is concerned."

"I think we should do our best now to negotiate this truce," he said, "and if we fail, then let England and our other Allies know that we are withdrawing from all further peace negotiations in Korea."

The Republican Senate majority leader added:

"I believe we might as well abandon any idea of working with the United Nations in the East and reserve to ourselves a completely free hand."

Taft's speech was delivered by his son, Robert A. Taft Jr., at a dinner in the senator's honor. The Ohio Republican still is in a local hospital for a checkup.

Taft said "even the best truce under present conditions will be extremely unsatisfactory." It would divide Korea along an unnatural line, creating an unstable condition likely to bring war again at any moment.

And, said Taft, a prime force on the Senate foreign relations committee, it would "release a million Chinese soldiers, who no doubt will promptly be moved down to southern China for use against Chiang Kai-shek or against the French in Indo-China."

He said that "from the beginning, we should have insisted on a general peace negotiations with China, including a unification of Korea under free Koreans, and a pledge against further expansion in southeast Asia."

Taft said he thinks that the United States "in any event" is bound to the policy of preventing Communist aggression where it occurs and where it is within the means of the United States to stop it.

He followed immediately by saying he has never felt that the United States "should send American soldiers to the continent of Asia... simply because we are so outnumbered in fighting a land war on the continent of Asia it would bring about complete exhaustion even if we were able to win."

Then he said the United States should give itself a completely free hand in the East and forget about working with the UN there.

"This statement," he concluded, "is going to shock a good many people who still believe in the United Nations."

He pointed to the North Atlantic Treaty, saying its adoption was without United Nations' leave and without its consultation.

The treaty "substitutes a military alliance for the United Nations as a means of preventing Soviet aggression."

The senator said he pointed out a long time ago that the United Nations "could not possibly prevent aggression because of the veto power which could be used by any one of the five powers to veto united action against themselves and against any one of their satellites."

Mister Taft wants not only peace by negotiation but victory too. But th' U.S. can't win it that way alone—they'll need a lot o' help from th' Chinese.

Funny folks, these Sacreds. They yell they ain't given enuff space in th' papers. An' when y' quote their speeches they say y'r tryin' t' embarrass 'em.

Y'r own home'll be a little brighter if it contributes somethin' t' th' Klwanis Village.
